

UN Haiti Cholera Response Multi-Partner Trust Fund

Since the outbreak of cholera in Haiti in 2010, an estimated 800,000 people have been affected by the disease and more than 9,500 people have died. This has had a tragic impact on families and communities who have been touched by the disease and highlighted the need to improve access to clean water, working sanitation and better health infrastructure for all Haitians. To address this critical situation, the former UN Secretary-General announced a new approach in 2016. This new UN approach to cholera in Haiti has two tracks, which include the following strategic objectives:

Track 1A: Intensifying immediate efforts to cut transmission of cholera and improve access to care and treatment;

Track 1B: Addressing the longer-term issues of water, sanitation and health systems; and Track 2: Developing a proposal for a package of material assistance and support to Haitians most directly affected by cholera.
