PROBLEM STATEMENT	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> - How can UN, its member states, the civil society and the survivors decide on linkages between existing legal frameworks and principles on reparations and Survivors Centred Approach i.e. what is the difference between reparations proper and survivors assistance? - How to ensure coherence and balance between different aspects of transitional justice for CRSV survivors, e.g. accountability, truth and reparations? - How to ensure complementarity between national and international and judicial and administrative reparations initiatives and mechanisms? - How to optimize the partnerships between humanitarian, gender, transitional justice, academia and other actors which will be mutually enforcing, but without duplication or contradiction. - How to make sure that survivors are able to freely and meaningfully participate in the decision making processes at national and international levels and thereby have opportunity to shape policy and practice? - What are the critical gaps in terms of inclusivity i.e. children born of war time rape, male survivors of sexual violence, sexual, sexualized or other violence committed against individuals due to their sexual orientation or gender identification etc?
