PART I: OVERALL PROJECT PROGRESS

NOTES FOR COMPLETING THE REPORT:

- Avoid acronyms and UN jargon, use general /common language.
- Report on what has been achieved in the reporting period, not what the project aims to do.
- Be as concrete as possible. Avoid theoretical, vague or conceptual discourse.
- Ensure the analysis and project progress assessment is gender and age sensitive.
- If relevant, please include any COVID-19 related considerations, adjustments and results and respond to section IV. (This section is optional)

Briefly outline the status of the project in terms of implementation cycle, including whether preliminary/preparatory activities have been completed (i.e. contracting of partners, staff recruitment, etc.)

Please limit your response to 1500 characters including spaces.

Thanks to the 6 months no-cost extension, agencies either already successfully completed their activities (including field and donor visits) during the time of drafting of this final report or are currently working on finalizing the last activities which are due to be completed by the 30th June 2022. In the meantime, preparations have started for the final and the impact evaluations of the project. For the final evaluation, a ToR was drafted by the Agencies with the facilitation of the PBF Secretariat and the recruitment of the evaluation firm is under way.

East Darfur saw a rise in security incidents such as carjackings and robberies that also targeted humanitarian actors, and tensions between local communities and South Sudanese Refugees and intra-tribal conflicts with violent clashes occurring in 2021. The deterioration of the security conditions prevented frequent monitoring and field visits and impacted the implementation of activities.

Furthermore, the project was affected by COVID-19 related restrictions, the de-reregistration of an implementing partner and the rainy season impacting accessibility of target villages. The project has also been affected by the military coup of the 25th October 2021 which resulted in the reduction of interactions with the government, but community engagement continued unhindered.

Summarize the main structural, institutional or societal level change the project has contributed to. This is not anecdotal evidence or a list of individual outputs, but a description of progress made toward the main purpose of the project

FOR PROJECTS WITHIN SIX MONTHS OF COMPLETION ONLY; (1500 character limit)

Under durable solutions, the provision of legal documentations ensured greater rights and access to public services for women, children, IDPs and refugees such as ownership and access to land, health insurance, access to social services and inheritance.

The strengthening of rule of law institutions via capacity building and the expansion of infrastructure, helped to maintain peace across the state, and no inter-tribal disturbances were witnessed in the localities during the project duration.

The creation of community-based structures such as resolution mechanisms and protection networks contributed to the establishment of a culture of dialogue and peace, to peaceful resolution of conflicts, de-escalation of disputes, decreased use of violence and to the promotion of peaceful coexistence of communities. Through community consultation processes, land legislation was drafted, and once ratified, it will be the basis for all future land policies. These community-based structures and the land legislation initiative became the key vehicles of land conflict resolution that is at heart of the conflict in East Darfur.

Women and youth empowerment through micro-finance initiatives and provision of basic services, their inclusion in community structures, decision-making bodies and peacebuilding initiatives that were formerly monopolised by men and the elderly, started to visibly shift the role of women in society, the perception on women in power and created a pathway toward emancipation.

PART II: RESULT PROGRESS BY PROJECT OUTCOME

Describe overall progress under each Outcome made during the reporting period (for June reports: January-June; for November reports: January-November; for final reports: full project duration). Do not list individual activities. If the project is starting to make/has made a difference at the outcome level, provide specific evidence for the progress (quantitative and qualitative) and explain how it impacts the broader political and peacebuilding context.

- "On track" refers to the timely completion of outputs as indicated in the workplan.
- "On track with peacebuilding results" refers to higher-level changes in the conflict or peace factors that the project is meant to contribute to. These effects are more likely in mature projects than in newer ones.

The project made significant achievements under the durable solutions pillar to ensure return of IDPs and refugees, to resolve land disputes, to improve natural resource management and provide alternative livelihood options.

Based on data collection across 50 villages by IOM (4,006 household surveys: 290 IDP, 2,820 returnee, 826 non-displaced and 70 nomadic) and consultations with communities and local authorities (Workshop in Ed-Daein in September 2021: 63 male and 10 female participants) UNHCR and UNDP created a Community Action Plan in March 2022 to inform government, UNAFPs and the international donor community on durable solutions needs and to guide peace interventions. The action plan focuses on the following community priorities: HLP, conflict resolution, female headed households, food security, youth, basic services, safety and security, legal documentation services.

Agencies addressed land and natural resource-related issues, the main driver of conflict, including through the formation of 3 locality-level land steering committees with 45 members (36 male, 9 female) from government, community leaders, different tribes and IDPs and successfully resolved 14 out of 19 land disputes, facilitated the registration of 600 farms and the drafting of a land legislation to govern land tenure and land registration, depending on ratification, based on 4 inclusive, multi-tribal and multi-stakeholder consultations (144 participants: 90 male, 54 female). The project also contributed to the reduction of conflict and competition over natural resources (17 pre-2022 and 2 after) with the establishment of 3 Natural Resource Committees with 60 members (39 male, 21 female) and the development of Resource Management Plans for the 3 localities that improved equitable access and distribution of resources.

In addition, FAO formed 3 Higher Peacebuilding Committees at the locality level to handle 67 farming and pastoral disputes, 12 Village-Level Peacebuilding Committees with 581 members (224 male, 199 male youth, 80 female, 78 female youth) were established and trained that improved seasonal monitoring of livestock migratory routes, protection of crop farms and resulted in a drop of violence. The VLPCs achieved successful monitoring of seasonal animal migration routes and resolved 112 conflicts between farmers and nomads. UN-HABITAT improved land management by digitalizing land records and capacity building of land institutions, sketch mapping and demarcation of potential return villages, awareness raising on land rights, and the application of the Social Tenure Domain Model that produces a database of community-based land tenure determination. The project introduced a participatory model for village planning, where government planning offices facilitate communities to make planning decisions. The project supported communities to complete sketch mappings of 4 potential return villages to create favourable conditions for return, resettlement and reintegration.

The project defied traditional norms and made women and youth participation in decision making mechanisms acceptable by men. The community-based bodies have an average 30% women participation rate.

61% of the durable solutions survey respondents were female which provides information on women and girls' access to education, maternal health, labor market, local decision making, food security and livelihood sources. 1,566 girls and women received civil documentation (518 girls - birth certificate, 637 women - marriage certificate and 411 ID cards). The documents allow access to basic services, political participation, enable married couples to rent a house, social assistance, health insurance, inheritance, alimony, and allowances.

Agencies provided vocational skill development and income generating trainings for 60 youth and 118 women. These livelihood options kept the youth out of conflict and also reduced women's reliance on negative coping strategies that would expose them to SGBV.

Outcome 2:

Good governance is instituted at locality level and confidence of people built: freedom of movement and physical security is taken for granted by men and women and the rule of law is perceived to be applied without fear or favour, quality basic services are accessible to all, and all feel a stakeholder to their provision.

Strengthening security and justice institutions is the cornerstone of improving rule of law in East Darfur. As such, UNDP and UNHCR jointly established 5 Police posts (Kilekile, Baraka, Um Al Khairat, Alfado Jakhara villages) and a prosecution office (Assalaya village), and deployed personnel. 79 Police Officers (67 male, 12 female) received training on child, women's rights, community-based policing, public safety and security committees and police volunteer schemes, investigation and forensic capacities, case management system, gender equality, diversity, and gender-responsive policing. This helped the Police to improve services to the community, including protection of civilians, respecting rule of law and the rights of those arrested.

Furthermore, 30 judges and prosecutors' (25 male, 5 female) capacities were improved on investigations, prosecution of sexual and gender-based violence in compliance with international standards collection, presentation of forensic, medical, and ballistic evidence. Cases are now resolved at the locality level instead of the state level which was sometimes hindered by resources and led to detention beyond the allowed time before facing a judge. 34 Paralegals (30 male, 13 female) were trained on legal aid, issues of SGBV and access to justice. They are playing a positive role in the communities raising awareness on legal issues, boosting confidence of women to report and refer SGBV cases to formal justice mechanisms for proper adjudication.

To improve equal access to quality basic services, UNICEF provided a total of 20,000 (6,857 male, 6,286 female, 2,857 boys, 4,000 girls) people with access to improved water and sanitation services that also led to the reduction of competition over water resources, monitoring activities also recorded a reduction of tension between communities, and increase of social cohesion through more frequent interactions of communities. The project established and trained 40 individuals from 4 WASH committees resulting in lowering water fees, reduced use of open source water and the likelihood of conflict.

To enhance social protection in the community, UNICEF established 9 Community-based Child Protection Networks and trained 157 members (35 male, 40 female, 40 female youth, 40 male youth) on child rights, identification of child protection incidents. Awareness campaigns reached 11520 people (4220 male, 7300 female) and an additional 13520 children (6280 boys, 7240 girls) benefitted from psychosocial support.

To create safe school environment and provide equal access to quality education, partners constructed 4 classrooms, 2 offices and rehabilitated 40 classrooms in Baraka, Maa'li, Al Fado, Um-El Khairat, Gare Hajar, Shnabila benefitting 2443 children (1232 boys, 1232 girls) to facilitate access to education services and to raise awareness and promote a non-violent and inclusive school culture and established Parent Teacher Associations with 200 members (120 male, 80 female).

The Sudanese Police force and Prosecutors defied cultural norms where women are excluded from law enforcement and ensured the participation of women Police officers (16%) in the ranks and Prosecutors (17%), including women as paralegals (30%). Youth also formed the bulk of paralegals (58%)

The project also brought together a total of 20000 individuals, (6300 male, 7600 female, 2800 boys, 3300 girls) from different ethnic groups in Gagara village to access safe water from 3 hand pumps, the male and female community members are currently managing the water point equitably and peacefully, rather than accessing them separately and it has brought a sense of peace and stability into the communities.

A culture of peace and rights is nurtured and sustained in Darfur by a vibrant civil society with the commitment and capacity to represent the interests of all stakeholders in the resolution of disputes, and holding Government to account for maintenance of the social contract.

UNDP established 11 Community-based Resolution Mechanisms (CBRMs) with 220 members (160 male, 60 female) to promote a culture of peace among communities. Members of the CBRMs include government authorities at locality level, women, youth, returnees, IDPs, farmers and nomads. Since the deployment of the a harmonized conflict tracking register, CBRMs have documented 52 cases including 42 natural resource conflicts and 10 GBV cases, resolved 42 cases, referred 9 to the locality higher committee and 1 to the native administration. Community dialogues and a Peacebuilding conference were held with 183 participants (59 female, 12 youth). The conference led to the endorsement of binding recommendations by both the government and the community representatives on an agreed peaceful coexistence position, migratory route, animal movement timetable and conflict resolution mechanisms.

UNHCR created 6 Community-based Protection Networks (CBPNs) with 75 members (42 male, 33 female) and trained on protection principles, human rights concepts and durable solutions. The CBPNs developed 2 community protection action plans in Ma'ali and Al Fado to identify protection risks, priorities, roles and functions. Through referrals and paralegal support, the project team assisted the issuance of 3168 documents including birth certificates for 1,122 children (604 boys, 518 girls), IDs for 772 persons (361 male, 411 female) and 1,274 marriage certificates for 637 married couples. The partners conducted 36 awareness campaign sessions focusing on GBV and child protection, FGM, early marriage, and civic documentation procedures reaching 3,585 persons (1883 male, 1702 female). CBPNs also contributed to facilitating access to services, gathering of information on protection risks, early warning on conflict triggers, and awareness raising on protection issues, and promoting positive coping mechanisms. Thanks to the PBF project, the community reported during monitoring visits a higher level of satisfaction with the provided remedies than prior to the project.

UNICEF strengthened child protection systems and delivered psychosocial support services to 13520 children (6280 boys, 7240 girls) benefitting from an awareness campaign on child rights, life skills, and peacebuilding. The creation of 6 referral pathways with 60 members (28 male, 32 female) responded to 13 SGBV cases, 20 victims received physical safety, mental health psychosocial support, legal services and PEP kits. The project also strengthened the capacities of 630 children in child rights, life skills and peacebuilding to overcome conflict-related stress, adopt positive coping mechanisms and resolve disputes peacefully. The project brought together youth groups at 3 conferences in Jakara, Shanbala, Garbage villages (80 boys, 100 girls), sport events and coffee and tea sessions to promote peaceful coexistence among tribes.

UN agencies exerted efforts in reaching out to women to ensure participation in all activities and informal structures. Given the Fund's focus on gender sensitivity, agencies ensured that children, women, and youth were part of decision-making processes when establishing the informal structures. This ratio reached equal numbers in the protection networks and at least 60% in the CBCPN including a minimum 40% of youth participation. Women's access to peacebuilding initiatives, participation in peace process and sensitisation on women rights creates a pathway to their emancipation. Furthermore, microfinance was used as a peaceful coexistence vehicle, creating a platform for 450 women to nurture each other and offer support and this greatly assisted the communities as evidenced by a reduction in reported GBV cases (9 cases in 2021 and 1 in 2022).

n/a - the project is ending on the 30th June 2022

In a few sentences, explain whether the project has had a positive human impact. May include anecdotal stories about the project's positive effect on the people's lives. Include direct quotes where possible or weblinks to strategic communications pieces.

This is an optional question. You may leave it unanswered if not relevant(2000 character limit)

De-escalation of disputes, peaceful resolution of conflict, and coexistence of different communities has been reinforced by the 11 Community-Based Resolution Mechanisms that successfully mediated and resolved 52 cases. "The CBRM ledger came at the right time for us since we managed to record cases and how we resolved them. Using past documented experience on how cases were resolved (jurisprudence), we are now able to resolve cases fairly to the satisfaction of both parties" - Alhassan Mohammed Ahmed Geed (Alfado village - CBRM Chairperson)

Omladain Ibrahim Ismail, a divorced woman of 40 years from Eljabor village -Asalaya locality, mother of 3 children, received a donkey cart as part of the gender and protection initiative. "As a poor woman, my contributions during community meetings were not taken seriously, but this project helped restore my dignity by providing the donkey cart, which has become an essential livelihood asset for my family. As a woman I was vulnerable, which led to my divorce, but now I command a lot of respect from people of different tribes as they solicit help from my cart, especially during the rainy season. Water points are scarce in Eljabor village, and we used to travel over 5km to collect water in 20L containers three times a week. Thanks to the donkey cart, I can collect more than 400L of water, enough for my family for two weeks, enabling me to run other businesses".

Possession of civil documentation can affect all aspects of a person's life, more so for children and women. UNHCR civic documentation activities helped married couples obtain marriage certificates and birth certificates for children. The possession of a legal marriage document enables the couple to rent a home together, have greater access to land, health insurance, inheritance, allowances from employers and/or social services, and land ownership claims all of which require proof of marriage.

RUNOs and their IPs conducted three joint coordination visits to the three target localities, met with the stakeholders from the government institutions and native administration. Communities expressed satisfaction with the activities ongoing in their villages and hope for improved peaceful coexistence with their neighbours and enhanced rule of law.

Moreover, agencies conducted several individual field monitoring missions to the three localities as well as joint field visits with the PBF Secretariat and a Donor mission to Yassin.

Agencies were able to monitor project activities through focus group discussions, face-to-face interviews with beneficiaries, general community meetings, and participatory monitoring from local government at locality level. The project team used outcome monitoring checklists and documents review such as Conflict Resolution Committees ledgers.

The baseline values are now established for all project outcomes and activities in each locality. The Perception and Intentions survey is an integral part of the household survey prepared to establish the baseline for this project. Data collection tools were formulated in consultation with the Durable Solutions Working Group. Data collection was carried out by IOM, the Joint IDPs Profiling Service (JIPS), and a national NGO, SUDIA. The project conducted a Focus Group Discussion facilitated by UNICEF to understand community views and nature of violence against children and the type of dispute among the youth from different groups, it started with one locality Sharia and will cover the other two localities: Assalaya and Yassin. Furthermore, data collection was continuous on the results of the different community-based mechanisms and networks through a harmonized ledger that provides record of registered cases.

Are there any other issues concerning project implementation (related to COVID-19 or not) that you want to share, including any capacity needs of the recipient organizations? (1500 character limit)

Please limit your response to 3000 characters including spaces.

The main challenges faced by the project can be summarized in: delays caused by social unrest, insecurity, shortage of construction materials in the local market, a lengthy process to secure authority permissions and police escort, and a relatively modest capacity among implementing partners, especially in technical areas, such as water projects, peacebuilding, conflict sensitivity, and protection.

As a response to the capacity gaps, the PBF Secretariat rolled out a conflict sensitivity and peacebuilding workshop in the 5 Darfur States during the first half of June. The Secretariat also prepared a set of tools and guidance on gender sensitivity.

Furthermore, in May 2021, the Federal Government deregistered several national non-governmental organizations, including several PBF project implementing partners. The issue was only resolved months later causing significant implementation delays that were followed by additional delays due to the rainy season and the October 2021 coup d'État that put restraints on the Agencies ability to work with the government.
