Project progress summary *

Please limit your response to 6000 characters

The preliminary stage of the project established institutional relationships and consultative mechanisms with government partners, LGUs, IDPs, CSOs, sectoral groups, private sector actors, and academia. These relationships have been maximized to support project initiatives.In terms of implementation, the JP is in the final stage of CAP data collection at 32 IDP sites/communities in Lanao del Sur, Maguindanao del Norte, and Maguindanao del Sur. Using family-level surveys and key informant interviews, the CAP will engage 790 evacuation centers, transitional sites, home-based, returned, and relocated IDPs, and government stakeholders. The findings will inform regional and local policy and programming for displacement prevention and solutions and will be presented in December 2024.

The JP scaled up its legislative reform and policy advocacy to expedite the IDP bill in BARMM. In September 2024, BTA Bill No. 32 was approved on final reading and signed into law by the Chief Minister on November 14, 2024, making it the first rights-based law on durable solutions for IDPs in Southeast Asia.The JP continues to promote local policies through ordinances, with four additional municipalities issuing them, bringing the total to 16 LGUs. At the national level, counterpart bills were deliberated by the Senate Committee on Justice and Human Rights in September 2024, and a TWG will be created to enhance and harmonize the bill.

The JP completed and will present the ABPD analysis on SPMS box, adjacent municipalities, and Marawi City in November 2024. The research highlighted the lack of livelihood opportunities for IDPs and showed that prolonged military operations in BARMM, unresolved rido, and increasing violence continue to contribute to displacement. The ABPD for NMIP communities is ongoing and expected to be completed in January 2025.JP also organized a private sector forum showcasing best practices of successful businesses in fragile contexts. With 17 cooperatives and social enterprises of women, youth, IDPs, former combatants, IPs, and settler communities, the forum facilitated networking and discussions on enhancing private sector engagement for economic development and sustainable livelihoods. These initiatives will inform the project's socioeconomic interventions.

Under Outcome 2, the JP supported MILG in enhancing resilience to violent conflicts and extremism by increasing their capacity in formulating LGU manuals and guidelines on conflict prevention and peacebuilding programs. These address durable solutions for IDPs and strengthen dialogue platforms between LGUs and IDP communities, ensuring additional protection and pathways to lasting solutions.The JP also provided technical assistance to MILG in strengthening initiatives under BTF-ELAC and localizing the Bangsamoro Plan of Action for Community Resilience through capacity building of target LGUs. Involving LGUs in the formulation process ensures the manuals and guidelines reflect actual experiences and lessons from the community. The participation of municipalities from the 25 conflict-affected communities in BARMM provides a more accurate basis for developing these manuals and guidelines.

In partnership with MPOS, the JP established the EWER system in 16 of the 32 municipalities covered by the CAP. To strengthen the system, the project capacitated 81 (31 F, 50 M) core volunteers through five TOT on the basic concept of EWER, mechanisms and its role in conflict prevention and response. Subsequently, the TOT completers conducted eight roll out training from August to September 2024 to a total of 409 (158 F, 251 M) community volunteers. The JP ensured inclusion of NMIP areas in clusters covered by the Conflict Reporting System and EWER mechanism given attacks on NMIP communities resulting in displacement since the establishment of BARMM in 2019. As a result of these initiatives, the EWER conflict data and reporting systems and response mechanisms are fully operational and actively supporting conflict monitoring and response efforts. The physical EWER Center will be completed in February 2025.

In partnership with PSRO, the JP provided capacity building support to PSRO through two trainings in October 2024 to 127 (14 F, 113 M) of MILF-BIAF base commanders and members and leaders on IDP protection mainstreaming, durable solutions and conflict resolution. It strategically engaged PSRO and MILF-BIAF to discuss their roles and responsibilities to IDPs, including NMIP IDPs, and in facilitating durable solutions.

The JP also supported peace dialogue and mediation missions building capacities on conflict resolution and resilience to violence. These are critical steps in increasing capacities of peace institutions towards inclusive conflict resolution and peacebuilding programming crucial in reducing and deescalating conflicts which usually result to displacement.

Engaging the marginalized and vulnerable NMIP communities, is crucial for inclusive and sustainable solutions to displacement. JP supported 60 IP youth leaders in developing a platform and action plan for Indigenous Young Professional Organizations to address IP challenges, such as ancestral domains, customary laws, governance structures, and civil and political rights in BARMM. Additionally, JP supported NMIP leaders in assessing their situation and formulating a strategic plan to guide the Consortium in addressing challenges, including conflict-induced displacement and issues affecting their meaningful involvement in the Bangsamoro Transition process and beyond 2025.

Mobilizing the youth, with their energy and numbers, is crucial for amplifying the NMIP's voice in local processes and decision-making forums. Support for the strategic plan helps NMIP communities identify and address priority issues, such as killings and disputes over ancestral domains. Without attention to these issues, the NMIP cannot focus on long-term solutions to displacement.

Indicate any additional analysis on how Gender Equality and Women's Empowerment and/or Youth Inclusion and Responsiveness has been ensured by the project to date *

Please limit your response to 3000 characters

In BARMM, community structures are still influenced by traditional structures where women are given secondary roles. Frequent displacement has significantly impacted women who are often left out of decision-makings and planning that affect them. Women NMIPs have an additional burden of belonging into a minority sector within a minority group. This occurs due to the existence of numerous governance systems but insufficient inclusive systems in IDP sites.

There are LGUs managed by the Philippine government, governance structure managed by traditional and clans whose authority is based on family lineage, and structures installed by the Moro revolutionary fronts and armed groups whose processes and priorities are based on the agenda of the group. All these impact decision-making which is usually made based on the interests of clans and traditional leaders and Moro fronts and armed groups rather than the needs of the vulnerable communities and marginalized groups such as women and youth.

To that end, the JP has implemented a range of measures to ensure gender equality and promote women's empowerment. The JP incorporated Protection from Sexual Exploitation and Abuse (PSEA) sessions in its capacity building activities. These trainings raised awareness on safeguarding measures, highlighted victim-survivor centred approach and emphasized zero-tolerance policy. Moreover, the CAP has captured gender-related dimensions of challenges and vulnerabilities specific to women. This will allow for nuanced understanding of their needs. The JP also ensured women's participation in the project's various capacity building activities. Their inclusion is aimed at improving women's visibility and influence in peacebuilding and mainstreaming of IDP protection and pathways towards durable solutions.

Along with promoting gender equality and women's empowerment, youth inclusion is also a critical focus of the project. The JP ensured women and youth's active role in contributing to efforts to address the causes and impact of conflict-induced displacement through a targeted training of youth and women leaders, including NMIP community leaders. The upcoming training will not only increase awareness on the rights and guarantees for IDPs, mechanisms to prevent conflict and pathways to durable solutions but also empower youth and women leaders to take more active roles decision-making and planning.

While progress has been made, the JP acknowledges ongoing challenges. Moving forward, the formulation of guidelines for IDP protection and durable solutions will advocate for women's active participation in processes and decision-making. The JP will also ensure participation of women and youth in upcoming capacity building initiatives. Moreover, the JP will collaborate with women and youth for community-led social cohesion and peacebuilding activities and partner with women-led and youth-led cooperatives for the project's socioeconomic initiatives.

Please limit your response to 3000 characters.

UNDP, IOM and UNHCR created a monitoring system to check the progress, identify gaps and share project results to ensure that the activities align and is responsive to the needs of the community.Project monitoring tools such as monthly reporting template, monitoring and evaluation plan, pre- and post-tests and post-activity evaluation tools were developed. Post-activity evaluation tools and pre- and post-tests are continually facilitated in various capacity building activities.

Furthermore, the project is continuously conducting monitoring activities in the form of consultation and coordination meetings with key government and civil society partners. Lastly, performance and financial verification were conducted to implementing partners as part of the project's due diligence process.

Baseline figures for the project are not yet available due to the sequencing of activities in the JP design., Bbaseline activitieslanned forAdditionally, the project recently onboarded the Monitoring and Evaluation (M&E) Analyst in October 2024. The M&E Analyst will lead monitoring, evaluation, and reporting efforts and will prioritize baseline data collection to ensure timely and accurate measurement of project progress and impact. In parallelAt the same time, the project is in the process of facilitating data collection of for certain outcome indicators through the conduct of ABPD research and CAP activities. These efforts will not only inform project interventions but also contribute to the refinement of baseline indicatorThe baseline will cover the project's two outcome areas. The identification of the baseline target communities will be facilitated through the CAP results. The data generated will provide baseline figures on several outcome and output indicators and key information on project implementation for both outcome areas. The baseline will employ a mixed-methods approach employing perception and kKnowledge, attitude and (intended) practice (KAP) surveys among affected populations to generate quantitative baseline figures. Qualitative methods such as focus group discussions and key informant interviews will complement these findings by providing context and depth to the data Q4 2024 once following the identification the project's target communities have been identified through the CAP. The project will launch outcome level data collection initiatives in December 2024 through the conduct of the JP baseline assessment. Preparatory work is already underway, with tThe Terms of Reference for the baseline, including outlining the methodology, sampling and data collection tools, are expected to be scheduled for finalizationed in November 2024. Baseline figures will therefore be provided in the next reporting period.

The project interventions have been designed in close consultation and coordination with partners from the BARMM government to ensure their alignment with their respective workplans and trajectories in the remaining months of the transition period. In addition, to ensure that project deliverables are strengthened and sustained, the JPSC has provided guidance to establish a TWG comprised by the technical focal points from the government partners, PUNOs, CSOs and academe. This will allow the JP to maintain its momentum and reinforce the continuity of the project considering the upcoming electoral period that might pose security risks and changes to the political landscape in the region.

During the JPSC meeting, the JPSC proposed the conduct of a risk assessment workshop. Initially, the workshop has identified that the upcoming elections might affect the implementation of the project where the project team recommended mitigation measures.

Technical support from the JP has enabled the potential integration of the CAP to the MSSD's IPART system. This provides opportunities for the project and MSSD to strengthen data integration on conflict-induced displacement that would further enhance response and programming addressing humanitarian needs and integrating the post-conflict situation of the IDPs. A technical workshop will be organized in the last quarter of 2024 to discuss the features of the CAP tools that can be integrated in the system which will contribute to enhancing data collection and monitoring of post crisis-situation and substantiate solutions planning for IDPs in BARMM. This further provides an opportunity for institutionalization of the CAP in the overall data system of the BARMM government. Legislative support from the project has also helped bring the national and regional IDP bill towards enactment. Support for LGUs in developing local ordinances for IDP rights protection and welfare promotion is envisioned to strengthen institutionalization of LGU policies and programmes on displacement solutions. There are also ongoing discussions with MILG on formulation of guidance in convening LGU Council for IDPs, as stipulated in the Bangsamoro Local Governance Code.

n The JP supported the NMIP in assessing their condition and reviewing strategies to support peace processes. Engaging with BARMM institutions is crucial for institutionalizing these efforts. Strengthening Timuay Justice, IPOs, and IPS is vital for sustaining peace and development in their ancestral domains."

This holistic approach not only supports the NMIP's traditional governance and political system but also ensures their active participation in Bangsamoro transition governance and decision-making processes and in support to the legislation and passage of the IP Code in the Bangasamoro parliament.

Are there any other issues concerning project implementation that you want to share, including any capacity needs of the recipient organizations?

Please limit your response to 3000 characters.

Uncertainty surrounding the2025 BARMM elections will impact the political landscape both in regional, provincial and municipal level. Changes in the executive leadership and management are expected, especially starting from the period of filing of candidacy including the registration of regional parliament political and parliament sectoral parties. Additionally, this may give rise to security risks including the risks of increase in incidents related to conflicts and violence as a result of political rivalries and clan feuds. The volatile political and security situation in the lead-up to the 2025 election may potentially impact the pace of coordination and implementation as well as pose the need for the project to review the priority interventions of the JP.

Further, the recent decision on 9 September 2024 of the Philippine Supreme Court excluding Sulu Province from the Bangsamoro Region caused for a recommendation to postpone the 2025 parliamentary election to provide the additional time necessary for the BTA to address the impact of the exclusion of Sulu on the parliamentary elections and other laws.
If the parliamentary elections are postponed, the Bangsamoro Transition Authority will be extended and new members appointed. The establishment of the TWG mentioned in the above section will thus play a crucial role in mitigating this risk to some extent and ensuring the continuity of the programming.

Moreover, natural disasters are on the rise increasingly affecting communities in BARMM. Last May 2024, the BARMM government declared a region-wide state of calamity due to El Niño. This is likely to be followed by rainy season from June 2024 – December 2024 according to the PAGASA forecast which can cause significant delays in project-related activities due to lack of access or because the project's implementing partners are involved in disaster response. It is also recommended that contingency planning is mainstreamed across the capacity building initiatives of the project's partners.
