The project has an active Steering Committee comprising the Executive Governors of Katsina and Kaduna State, the Federal Minister of Budget and Planning, with the UN Humanitarian and Resident Coordinator as Chairman. The UN Agencies implementing the project are observers and represented by the Heads of UN agencies i.e UNDP, IOM, UN Women and OHCHR. The Steering Committee provides strategic guidance on project implementation and shares achieved results at a high political level in both states. Indeed, it serves as a platform for updating the Federal Government of Nigeria on overall project progress.

Given the political period from the end of 2022 and early 2023, as part of the risk mitigation measure for the project, the project set up a Technical-level Project Committee consisting of UN implementing agencies and State partners from Katsina and Kaduna. The technical steering committee has the responsibility of providing comprehensive technical oversight for the project implementation. The technical-level Project Committee has met seven times (January, April and October 2023 – January, May and September 2024 – January 2025) and rotates the co-chairing of the meeting between the Chief Judge of the Katsina State Judiciary, the Executive Vice Chairman of the Kaduna State Peace Commission and the Peace and Development Advisor at the Resident Coordinator’s Office.

The 1st Inaugural Meeting of the High-Level Project Steering Committee was held on October 19, 2023, at the UN House in Abuja. The committee is scheduled to convene once or twice a year, while the Technical-Level Project Committee meets quarterly and has convened twice in the past six months. The second and closing High-Level Project Steering Committee meeting was held virtually on March 10, 2025, to accommodate all participants during the fasting month of Ramadan.

Please provide a brief description of any engagement that the project has had with the government over the last 6 months. Please indicate what level of government the project has been engaging with.

Please limit your response to 3000 characters

The project has actively engaged with both high-level political leadership and technical staff within the governments of Kaduna and Katsina States. This engagement takes place through two key committees: the Project Steering Committee, which includes the Executive Governors of Kaduna and Katsina, and the Federal Ministry of Budget and Planning. Additionally, the Technical Level Committee comprises essential government agencies and UN implementing partners. These committees serve the purpose of not only securing commitment to peace and security but also sharing and discussing strategic guidance and updates for the project's ongoing implementation.

Furthermore, at the field coordination level in both Kaduna and Katsina States, the project has played a pivotal role in establishing the State Working Group (SWG). This group brings together technical staff and heads of various government agencies, fostering synergy and collaboration among them. This collaboration has led to the development and implementation of government policies and programmes aimed at strengthening peace and security in both states, using a robust and joint strategic approach.

The PBF I4P project engaged with Kaduna State Peace Commission (KSPC) and Community, Religious, Youth, and Women Leaders in a training of these leaders as insider mediators using a collaboratively developed Insider Mediator Training Manual. The engagement also bequeathed a level of responsibility to these leaders on behalf of the Kaduna State Judiciary's Multidoor Courthouse system. Engagements are continuing to further entrench the alternative dispute resolution model represented by the multidoor courthouse and to formalise the legality and binding nature of the actions of these recognised insider mediators via the delegated authority of the State High Court and its Chief Judge.

From 24 to 28 February and 3 to 8 March, the final evaluation team — led by consultant Babatunde David and supported by UNDP's M&E analyst — conducted fieldwork in Kaduna and Katsina States to collect data using various methodologies. The consultants engaged a wide range of stakeholders through Key Informant Interviews (KIIs), Focus Group Discussions (FGDs), and Townhall meetings to gather and validate outcome and impact-level data.

The field team included representative from UN partners (UNDP, IOM, OHCHR & UN Women), implementing partners (KSPC, Kaduna MHSSD, Katsina State High Court of Justice, Commissioner of Security, PWAN, BTG, Neem Foundation, WANEP & NHRC), as well as project beneficiaries (across MHPSS, Livelihoods and Trainings components) and ad-hoc partners as the Community Response Network and local Key Informants. The evaluation aims to formally close the project and has covered the capital cities of Kaduna and Katsina, as well as Kaura and Kachia LGAs (in Kaduna State) and Faskari and Jibia LGAs (in Katsina State).

PART I: OVERALL PROJECT PROGRESS

NOTES FOR COMPLETING THE REPORT:

- Avoid acronyms and UN jargon, use general /common language.
- Report on what has been achieved in the reporting period, not what the project aims to do.
- Be as concrete as possible. Avoid theoretical, vague or conceptual discourse.
- Ensure the analysis and project progress assessment is gender and age sensitive.

Since its launch, the project has significantly influenced peacebuilding in Kaduna and Katsina States through coordinated efforts with state actors and institutions such as the Kaduna State Peace Commission and Katsina State Judiciary. By focusing on two communities in each of four LGAs — Kaura and Kachia (Kaduna), Kaita and Faskari (Katsina) — the project ensures targeted impact and long-term sustainability.

Institutional and policy frameworks have been strengthened, including the finalized Katsina SAP-YPS, validated with UN Women and PWAN. The SAP-WPS is under review. In Kaduna, mediators were trained in Kachia and Kaura LGAs, and KSPC developed an Insider Mediator Manual to enhance community-level mediation tools. The Multi-Door Courthouse Model was also introduced in Kaduna, enhancing local dispute resolution based on lessons from Katsina Katsina's cross-learning exchanges, and improving dispute resolution mechanisms.

UN Women appointed a dedicated National Programme Officer and engaged two women-led CSOs (PWAN and BTG) to support implementation in both states. OHCHR, under a UN-to-UN agreement with UNDP, deployed a coordinator and two human rights monitors to deliver technical support, field missions, and develop human rights monitoring tools. Through bi-weekly missions, community sessions, and the formation of Human Rights Community Response Teams, OHCHR has helped establish reporting mechanisms and Human Rights Complaints Desks, enabling stronger protection efforts by local governments and UN partners.

IOM has played a key role in monitoring transhumance and activating early warning systems, contributing significantly to peacebuilding in conflict-prone areas. In Kaduna, 400 out of 435 disputes were resolved; in Katsina, 185 of 201. Community Response Networks (CRNs) were instrumental in this success, having facilitated 268 meetings in Kaduna and 141 in Katsina. These interventions have eased farmer-herder tensions and promoted social cohesion. While compensation-related challenges continue to delay the resolution of certain cases, ongoing mediation efforts have sustained dialogue and reduced the risk of violence. Communities once vulnerable to recurring conflict are now better equipped to manage disputes internally. Crucially, with early warning systems now embedded at the local level, communities are positioned to continue these efforts independently beyond IOM's engagement.

OHCHR's outreach, including interfaith dialogues and community visits, has promoted mutual respect among Fulanis, farmers, and business owners. Human rights and gender education have boosted the reporting of violations, with Human Rights Monitoring Centers and Gender Desks enhancing response mechanisms. Advocacy with traditional leaders has reinforced commitments to peaceful coexistence.

Overall, the project's holistic approach, involving multiple stakeholders and comprehensive assessments, has laid a strong foundation for ongoing peacebuilding efforts. The significant reduction in conflicts and the successful engagement of communities indicate a positive trajectory towards sustainable peace and stability in Kaduna and Katsina States.

The joint project between UNDP, UN Women, IOM, and OHCHR in Kaduna and Katsina states embodies a holistic approach to fostering peace, enhancing human rights, and building community resilience. In Kaduna, UNDP's support has enabled the KSPC to obtain governmental ratification necessary for the publication of the SAP-YPS and its Strategic Plan document. Both documents have been jointly launched alongside the second SAP-WPS which was fairly supported by the PBF project through UN Women working with PWAN. This effort is closely tied with UN Women's collaboration, ensuring gender responsiveness in these strategic action plans.

Provider mapping in Kaura and Kachia LGAs sets the stage for mediator training, aligning with IOM's capacity-building efforts. EWER systems were strengthened with a toll-free hotline and fully equipped situation room. In Katsina, the SAP-YPS draft was validated by the Ministry of Youth, with public awareness campaigns planned.

In Kaduna, a standard training manual for insider mediators was jointly developed by UN WOMEN, with guidance provided by the technical support of UNDP and the KSPC. The manual is intended to serve as a resource for building an extensive community-level network of insider mediators. The manual covers a diverse range of topics such as peace, conflict, mediation skills, ethics, gender, and dialogue, the manual was used to train traditional, religious, youth, and women leaders in Kachia and Kaura LGAs in December 2024.

To enhance early response capacity, EWER structures were strengthened, including the setup of a situation room and a toll-free hotline (080001110111). A final EWER Coordination Group meeting in January 2025 confirmed continuity beyond the project, with partners committing to regular meetings—some virtually—to reduce costs.

In Katsina, UNDP's focus also extends to training CSOs on Alternative Dispute Resolution (ADR) systems, potentially involving UN Women and OHCHR for additional support on gender and human rights. The temporary closure of the Joint Command Center for renovation reflects strong government commitment. In both states, NEEM Foundation finalized its MHPSS report, while WANEP and consultants conducted livelihood assessments and resource mapping, leading to a beneficiary database based on cooperative models. Livelihood items have been distributed, reaching over 500 beneficiaries from Faskari and Kaita LGAs, including over 300 women.

UN Women has been instrumental in ensuring gender responsiveness in strategic action plans, collaborating with KSPC and UNDP to review and validate the SAP-YPS (UNSCR 2250) in Kaduna. Training for government officials on community-based peacebuilding strategies in Katsina, as well as the development of a policy framework for conflict resolution hubs in Kaita and Faskari LGAs of Katsina State, coupled with media awareness programs, has broadened the impact of these initiatives. Townhall meetings in Faskari and Kaita LGAs engaged 202 beneficiaries, promoting women's capacity and meaningful participation in peacebuilding within their communities. A total of 205 lay counsellors, mostly government staff, were trained to provide MHPSS support, benefiting 115 women and girls affected by conflict, a sustainable measure beyond the project's end.

UN Women's monthly intergenerational dialogues offer a platform for women and girls to share experiences and strategize on combating gender-based violence (GBV). This also serve as a safe space for women and girls in target communities, will continue to promote understanding and collective action against GBV, through the continuous interaction between women and girls of different generations beyond the life span of the project. In partnership with the Kaduna State MHSSD, a comprehensive and community supported GBV referral and reporting system that ensures survivors receive timely and coordinated support, is now operational. A validated GBV Service Directory and mapping of 306 service providers (206 in Kaduna, 100 in Katsina) further bolster survivor support services.

IOM supported peacebuilding efforts by publishing 48 reports on transhumance flow monitoring and Early Warning and Early Response (EWER), conducting surveys, and leading trainings with OHCHR and UN Women. Through 82 community meetings held in Kaduna and Katsina, the communities addressed key drivers of conflicts, including underage grazing, resource clashes and land disputes were addressed. An active enumerator team continuously tracked transhumance movements, with 28 EWER alerts and 20 flow monitoring reports shared across four LGAs. These efforts enhanced conflict prevention and enabled timely response to conflicts and emerging tensions along migration corridors, facilitating early responses.

OHCHR strengthened human rights and gender-sensitive approaches by training over 140 participants, including law enforcement, local officials, CSOs, and human rights defenders, on monitoring and reporting. This led to the establishment of Human Rights Complaint Desks and Farmers/Herders Dialogue Committees in the LGAs. To sustain rights-based interventions, OHCHR also held town halls with religious and vigilante leaders and partnered with security agencies. Monitoring of GBV and rights violations was enhanced through a new center in NHRC offices, supported by youth leaders and local information officers.

Together, the consortium has created a robust strategy that addresses the multifaceted challenges in peacebuilding, gender equity, and human rights, leveraging on the initiatives to strengthen peace architectures and ensure inclusivity and support sustainability in Kaduna and Katsina states.

Indicate any additional analysis on how Gender Equality and Women's Empowerment and/or Youth Inclusion and Responsiveness has been ensured by the project to date

Please limit your response to 3000 characters

Project agencies have incorporated GEWE and Youth Inclusion through key strategies. A workshop on conflict and gender-sensitive approaches led to an action-oriented dashboard with assigned responsibilities for accountability.

Gender-equitable mental health support is a priority. NEEM Foundation and Bridge that Gap Foundation, chosen for their gender-sensitive approaches, are implementing the MHPSS component. The ToR for the livelihoods assessment required gender-disaggregated research, ensuring gender-related inclusivity. UNDP and NEEM's work in Kaita and Faskari LGAs has promoted gender equality, with equal participation in psychosocial programs. Gender-specific interventions like dance, picture, and drama therapy addressed issues of gender-based violence, trauma, and mental health. Community outreach engaged 247 women, 259 men, and 115 children, challenging harmful norms and training women, while involving men as allies in promoting gender equality.

In Kaduna State, the project advocates for increased women's participation, aiming for 50% representation in all meetings. UNDP has conducted sensitization and advocacy to ensure that GEWE is prioritized by the KSPC. Monthly community awareness exercises and townhall meetings by UN WOMEN has promoted women's capacity on gender issues and meaningful participation in peacebuilding. The technical proposal from KSPC includes provisions for 50% women participation and benefit from project implementation.

In Katsina State, the project engaged female-led CSOs like Murna Foundation to lead the SAP-YPS development, involving women, girls, and youths to ensure gender integration. It also collaborated with the Ministries of Youth and Women Affairs to mainstream gender in the SAP-YPS.

Additionally, the Katsina State Judiciary, with UNDP's technical support, developed a gender-sensitive framework for establishing Community Conflict Dispute Resolution Centers (CCDRC) under the Multidoor Courthouse. This framework aims to ensure inclusive and gender-sensitive dispute resolution processes. UN WOMEN completed this effort by engaging a consultant who developed a gender responsive policy framework for the establishment of conflict dispute resolution hubs, specifically in Faskari and Kaita LGAs of Katsina State, and subsequently delivering a 3-day training to 26 members of these hubs, on gender mainstreaming and responsive in peacebuilding. The capacity building training will enhance efficient running of the hubs, beyond the project's life span.

To promote gender and advance the rights of women, OHCHR trained over 80 women on gender and human rights, enhanced their capacities to identify, monitor and report violations and strengthened referral pathways to promote accountability.

These combined efforts demonstrate a comprehensive approach to ensuring GEWE and Youth Inclusion and Responsiveness, embedding gender sensitivity and youth engagement at every stage of project implementation.

The PBF project has yielded substantial outcome-level peacebuilding results, significantly impacting societal and structural frameworks. A notable achievement is the development of the first draft of the SAP-YPS in Katsina. A policy document that speaks to youths' involvement in peace and security decisions in Katsina state. Similarly, the project has also supported the KSPC to finalize, validate and have a state launch of both the draft Kaduna SAP-YPS and the KSPC's Strategic Plan (2024-2027), setting the stage for governmental ratification and publication.

The PBF has also influenced new programmes design with the establishment of the UNDP Northwest Prevention Facility and the Climate Security project respectively funded by Germany and Norway. These initiatives focus on prevention activities, climate security and livelihood interventions, particularly in agriculture, thus addressing root causes of conflict by improving economic stability and environmental resilience. The project has also inspired the Northwest Governors' Forum to organize the Flagship Peace and Security Summit, held on June 24-25.

The project has also enhanced inter-institutional cooperation and capacity building. The KSPC has successfully integrated five key Ministries, Departments, and Agencies (MDAs)—covering security, human development, local government administration, budget and planning, and agriculture—into a cohesive platform. This integration has fostered a more coordinated and efficient use of state resources, leading to comprehensive development and security strategies that benefit the broader community.

In partnership with the Ministry of Security and internal affairs and CSOs, the Katsina Ministry of Youth and Sports Development (MYSD) has established a platform to enhance youth participation in state security. This collaboration has empowered CSOs to play a more active role in promoting security awareness within local communities, thereby strengthening grassroots involvement in peacebuilding efforts.

The PBF initiative has also made significant strides in engaging the media to promote peacebuilding narratives. The inauguration and strengthening of a Network of Peace Journalists in Kaduna, focused on EWER and conflict-sensitive reporting, have fostered a commitment to peace journalism. This initiative has led to more informed and sensitive media coverage of conflicts, enhancing public awareness and dialogue around peacebuilding efforts.

Furthermore, the project has bolstered community-level confidence in reporting human rights violations. Continuous monitoring visits and educational initiatives have increased community awareness of human rights and gender implications, encouraging victims to report violations without fear. This shift represents a critical behavioural change, fostering a culture of accountability and protection of human rights within communities.

In Katsina, the PBF project has also helped reduce the strain on traditional courts and ensure fairer, quicker conflict resolution, which in turn supports community stability. Indeed, UNDP-supported Katsina Judiciary High Court and Multidoor Courthouse offer various ways to settle disputes, including Alternative Dispute Resolution (ADR) systems such as mediation and arbitration, making justice more accessible and efficient.

At the governmental level, the project is perceived as a catalyst for advancing the Youth, Peace, and Security agenda. In Kaduna State, the Commissioner for Human Services and Social Development has engaged with youth around a unified agenda, promoting inclusivity and collaborative development. Similarly, in Katsina State, the Ministry of Youths and Sports has strengthened its collaboration with the National Youth Council, facilitating youth participation in decision-making processes.

The PBF project has also expanded economic opportunities to build resilience in conflict-affected communities, focusing particularly on women in agriculture. In Katsina, for instance, with the support of WANEP, 500 beneficiaries—including approximately 300 women from Faskari and Kaita LGAs—have received tailored livelihood support packages. These efforts not only improve economic stability but also enhance community cohesion, as empowered individuals become active contributors to local peace and development.

The establishment of coherent coordination mechanisms for EWER platforms in Kaduna has further exemplified the project's structural impact, especially with the establishment of five (5) EWER toll-free hotlines in Kaduna State by the project, to support the coordination efforts of the KSPC. Field teams have successfully mapped relevant actors and convened consultative meetings to address pressing issues. The creation of a joint platform dedicated to EWER has been met with strong commitment from various stakeholders, enhancing coordination between public sector officials responsible for peace and security. The Kaduna State Conflict Early Warning and Early Response System (CEWERS) is now more effectively linked with security agencies at both state and local government area levels, ensuring a more integrated and responsive approach to conflict prevention and management. Similarly, the establishment of women mediator networks in Kaduna and Katsina States and providing 55 women mediators with skills in conflict prevention and management through a 3-day training, as well as on-going mentoring support to these women, will continue to strengthen local EWER mechanisms, and peacebuilding efforts within the communities beyond the project's life span.

Overall, the PBF project's initiatives have resulted in significant changes in attitudes, behaviours, and institutional frameworks, contributing to a more peaceful and resilient society. These concrete examples demonstrate the project's effectiveness in fostering collaboration, enhancing capacity, and promoting inclusive and sustainable peacebuilding efforts.

Human Impact

This section is about the human impact of the project. Please state the number of key stakeholders (including but not limited to: Civil Society Organziations, Beneficiaries, etc.) of the project, and for each, please briefly describe:

i. The challenges/problem they faced prior to the project implemantation

ii. The impact of the project in their lives

iii. Provide, where possible, a quote or testimonial from a representative of each stakeholder group

This is an optional question. You may leave it unanswered if not relevant

Human Impact	Type of stakeholder	What has been the impact of the project on their lives?	Provide, where possible, a quote or testimonial from the stakeholder

1	Youth Group Coordinator	Acknowledging the potential of young people as agents of change, UNDP recognized the importance of Youth, Peace, and Security (YPS). Youth play a key role in preventing conflicts and sustaining peace hence the need to involve young people in decision-making processes pertaining to peace and security through various platforms. Through the KSPC, youths from 23 LGAs were trained in a capacity building workshop to better understand the strategic framework and contribute in their own quota towards peace building and conflict prevention.	“The Youth Coalition brought about different professionals in different fields contributing to youth development to the same platform. This has made it easy for us to tap into different opportunities, and it has also brought us closer - thanks to UNDP through the PBF project. And one of the driving forces behind this success is the development of the State Action Plan (SAP) on YPS. We want to say a big thank you to the United Nations Development Programme (UNDP) for this initiative and action towards Peace building in Kaduna State” Eric John, State Coordinator on Youth, Peace & Security Network in Kaduna State.

2	State Government Officials / Local Peacebuilding Entities	The Kaduna State Peace Commission (KSPC) was inaugurated in November 2017. UNDP was among the first international organizations that supported the launch and implementation of the commission by developing a strategic plan at the state level. This strategic framework supported the Kaduna State government in streamlining activities and setting clear priorities to ensure that peacebuilding activities are mainstreamed in all the institutions of governance in the state. A key limitation to peacebuilding interventions that were recognized in 2018, were integrated into the strategic plan. The limitations centered around the need for an efficient EWER mechanism to effectively tackle the persistent conflicts in Kaduna State. The systems in place will be digitally friendly and seamlessly integrating the various capacities within the state. IOM tools have been integrated effectively within the existing national frameworks,	“It is pleasing to note that UNDP was the first organization to support the KSPC to develop the EWER system and framework. UNDP engaged a professional organization to carry out a need assessment of the commission to engage with a wide range of stakeholders that led to the development of the EWER system. The EWER is a digital base system with a network of early reporters who were trained and supported to help in providing readily available information relating to conflict situation.” Dr. Saleh Momale, Executive Vice Chairman Kaduna State Peace Commission. particularly through the Ministry of Agriculture's livestock department. The Transhumance Tracking Tool (TTT) activities have led to the mapping of transhumance corridors and enabled the rapid sharing of information with local stakeholders on both actual and potential conflicts, supporting timely prevention and resolution efforts. In addition, it generated data that informs evidence-based policy and decision-making. The establishment of the Community Response Networks (CRNs) has expanded outreach at the local level, ensuring that community structures are in place in multiple LGAs. These networks, working alongside key stakeholders like MACBAN and AFAN, have enhanced efforts in addressing farmer-herder conflicts and promoting sustainable use of natural resources. Early Warning Early Response (EWER) initiatives have further improved communication between local governments, security agencies (including The Nigeria Police Force (NPF), Local

		vigilantes, Community Watch Corps (CWC), Nigeria Security and Civil Defence Corps (NSCDC)), traditional leaders, and peacebuilding entities. This has led to quicker response times and better coordination in conflict prevention and resolution, especially through the sharing of real-time data on herder movements. As an impact from the implementation of the joint PBF project, the network of women mediators in Kaduna State expanded from 7 to 9 LGAs (Jema'a, Kajuru, Zaria, Igabi, Chikun, Kaduna North, Kaduna South, Kaura & Kachia), leveraging previous UN Women-led initiatives. These trained mediators are now actively resolving conflicts across communities.

3	Judicial / Legal authorities	UNDP has played a crucial role in these remarkable achievements. One significant advancement the state has experienced is the transformation of our system by UNDP, which involves providing infrastructure and revolutionizing our approach through the provision of gadgets and all necessary resources, facilitating our transition to virtual conflict resolution stages. One of the objectives of the PBF project is to provide rural communities with access to justice and promote alternative dispute resolution mechanisms. UNDP contributed resources to develop a framework for these centers, emphasizing a gender-sensitive approach to alternative dispute resolution. Through the PBF project, the legal frameworks have been strengthened and enhanced by ensuring efficiency of the justice system by encouraging amicable dispute resolution through mediation, arbitration, or negotiation, thus relieving	The Community Conflict Dispute Resolution Centre has managed a higher caseload in one year than the traditional court has handled in five (5) years, and this achievement is entirely attributed to the support provided by UNDP, emphasized by Justice Danladi Musa Abubakar, Chief Judge of the Katsina State High Court.

		the traditional court system. IOM activities through the PBF project have provided critical support in managing and resolving disputes. The TTT has been instrumental in promoting conflict mediation mechanisms, which have allowed legal entities to rely more on mediation and arbitration rather than lengthy litigation processes. This approach has proven particularly effective in resolving farmer-herder conflicts. The TTT's insights into transhumance patterns and routes have informed legal authorities in drafting more relevant legal reforms in areas such as transhumance rights, land tenure, and grazing policies. As a result, the judicial system is now better equipped to handle conflicts by fostering a legal environment that is aligned with the realities of transhumance and promoting sustainable peacebuilding strategies.

Empowering Peace: How Livelihood Support and Human Rights Advocacy Transform Crisis-Affected Communities in Northwest Nigeria

Building and ensuring lasting peace entails that all mechanisms are put in place to foster and sustain local peace processes, while also providing livelihood support to families affected by crisis, thereby addressing both the immediate and long-term needs of the community.

The United Nations Development Programme (UNDP) and UN Women, through the Peacebuilding Fund (PBF) project, took a holistic approach in tackling the ongoing crisis in the Northwest region of Nigeria. This was achieved by not only providing Mental Health and Psychosocial Support (MHPSS), improving access to justice, and strengthening local peace architecture but also offering livelihood support to affected families and individuals. This comprehensive approach aims to address the multifaceted needs of the community, fostering resilience and sustainable peace.

MARIAM BELLO'S STORY

Meet Mariam Bello, a 62-year-old mother of four, whose life has been transformed thanks to the livelihood package she received through the PBF project. With the right training and support, her story has taken a new direction.

"I reside in Kaita LGA, Katsina State. I am married with four children. My husband and I have always believed in managing whatever comes our way. He is a trader who buys and sells provisions, but things have not been going well due to the prevailing conflict in this region. I've always wanted to support our family in my own small way, but the opportunity was never there, until I received assistance from UNDP. I was so amazed and happy for such help," Mariam shared.

Mariam was among the beneficiaries who received Mental Health and Psychosocial Support (MHPSS), which helped restore her resilience and strength to keep pushing forward and supporting her family in any way she could. She had long hoped for an opportunity to start something of her own. The livelihood component of the Peace Building Fund (PBF) project addresses these needs by empowering vulnerable individuals like Mariam with the resources and skills to rebuild their lives, fostering their ability to contribute to their families and communities meaningfully.

"I was so interested when we got to know we would be trained on skills we want to ventured in, and some years back when i was still single I used to sew well, but that was a long time ago, so I needed to sharpen my skills again and this training provided me that, and we were also provided with starter-kits, I received a tailoring kit while other women received grinding machine while received some farm input, I was so happy to finally start contribution my own quota to my family and the community" Mariam expresses.

Beneficiaries received various skills acquisition training, ranging from shoemaking, tailoring, vulcanizing, and operating grinding machines, among others. Starter kits were provided to the beneficiaries to ease the transition into their new trades, ensuring they had the necessary tools and resources to succeed. Mariam has now become a key figure in the fashion industry in Kaita LGA, making a good profit from her tailoring business while also training young girls in the trade.

“Depending on the season, during festive periods, I make over thirty to forty thousand naira in monthly profit. I am now able to support my husband and family. I’m also part of a cooperative where I save to purchase an embroidery machine. Throughout the year, I offer training to young girls so they too can stand on their own and make a difference,” Mariam shared with pride. “I am so thankful to UNDP for this great initiative. God bless you!”

Her success not only empowers her family but also contributes to the wider community, creating a ripple effect of growth and self-reliance for other women.

A joint Monitoring mission has been conducted in Kaduna and Katsina states by the M&E staff across the implementing agencies (UNDP and IOM). The team, seek to achieve the following:

- Track the periodic progress against targets of output and outcome indicators.
- Determine the efficiency, effectiveness, and potential for program sustainability.
- Provide lessons learned for building sustainable program capacity.
- Provide an integrated program result dashboard that will enhance program accountability.
- The project endline evaluation has been conducted in Kaduna and Katsina states.

One of the most promising indicators of the PBF I4P Project's broader impact is the successful implementation of multi-courts utilizing ADR mechanisms — such as mediation and arbitration — in Katsina State. These multi-courts integrate traditional and formal judicial processes, offering a culturally resonant and holistic approach to conflict resolution. By easing the burden on conventional courts, they ensure quicker, fairer access to justice and significantly contribute to community stability.

The success of these ADR-integrated courts has strengthened trust in local judicial systems and fostered greater cooperation between communities and justice institutions. As a result, Katsina's ADR model is now being scaled to more LGAs and replicated in states like Kaduna, Borno, Yobe, and Kebbi, demonstrating its adaptability and impact. Institutionalizing ADR has reduced case backlogs, restored public confidence, and embedded community-led conflict resolution into formal governance — supporting long-term, sustainable peacebuilding.

Further reinforcing these efforts, a policy framework for community-based conflict resolution hubs in Kaita and Faskari LGAs — managed by the Katsina State Ministry of Internal Security — continues to expand the peace architecture of the state. These hubs serve as anchors for locally-driven interventions, ensuring sustained impact beyond the project's duration.

At the community level, the project established and trained 47 CRN committees across conflict-prone LGAs, leading over 400 peace meetings and resolving most reported disputes — 400 of 435 in Kaduna and 185 of 201 in Katsina. Their expansion has strengthened grassroots peacebuilding and local mediation capacity.

IOM's EWER and Transhumance Flow Monitoring (TFM) systems have bolstered community resilience. With 268 alerts issued, the EWER system is now institutionalized in four LGAs and integrated into state structures like the Kaduna EWER Network and a toll-free hotline, promoting sustainability and coordinated conflict response.

Katsina's ADR and EWER models have also catalyzed regional cross-learning. Peacebuilding agencies from Plateau, Benue, and Anambra engaged in peer exchanges with the Katsina Judiciary and the Kaduna State Peace Commission, showcasing how successful models can inspire broader replication and innovation across states.

Finally, the project built on previous UN Women-led initiatives in Kaduna to expand the network of trained women mediators from 7 to 9 LGAs —including Jema'a, Kajuru, Zaria, Igabi, Chikun, Kaduna North, Kaduna South, Kaura, and Kachia. These women are now actively mediating disputes and facilitating community dialogues, amplifying women's leadership in local peacebuilding and fostering more inclusive, resilient communities.

Together, these achievements highlight how strategic, community-driven, and institutionally anchored interventions can drive transformative, long-term change in peace ecosystems across Nigeria.

Sustainability

Does the project have an explicit exit strategy?

Please describe any steps that have been taken to ensure the sustainability of peacebuilding gains, including any mechanisms, platforms, networks and socio-economic initiatives supported, beyond the duration of the project

To sustain peacebuilding gains in Katsina and Kaduna States, UN agencies and partners have built strong local capacities, responsive networks, and integrated socio-economic initiatives.

UNDP provided technical and financial support to empower state agencies to independently implement initiatives aligned with local priorities, promoting ownership and sustainability. With UNDP's backing, Neem Foundation distributed MHPSS materials in Kachia, Kaura, Faskari, and Kaita LGAs, enabling community-led training, referrals, and long-term mental health support. To strengthen Kaduna's early warning systems, UNDP also trained youth and journalists in ethical threat reporting. These efforts now support an ICT-based early warning network coordinated by peace committees, using local insights to detect and prevent conflict.

UN Women has advanced grassroots peacebuilding through a network of 55 trained women mediators in both states, actively supporting local EWER systems and community reconciliation. In Kaduna, the network expanded from 7 to 9 LGAs under the joint-PBF project, resolving disputes and reinforcing local peace structures. The Katsina State Peace Committee received further training in conflict management, while in Kaduna, UN Women supported the YPS 2250 Implementation Committee, enabling 26 members to sustain youth and women-led peacebuilding initiatives beyond the project.

IOM built local conflict management capacities by training community leaders, government officials, and members of MACBAN and AFAN to use the Transhumance Tracking Tool (TTT), enhancing their ability to monitor pastoral movements and address farmer-herder tensions. IOM also established Community Reconciliation Networks (CRNs), which hold monthly peace meetings and drive grassroots dialogue. Combined with a community-managed EWER system, these platforms support proactive conflict prevention and resolution. Data from transhumance reports now inform state policies, improving responses to resource-based disputes.

OHCHR enhanced accountability by establishing Human Rights Monitoring and Reporting Centers at NHRC offices and forming community-based response teams in Kaduna and Katsina. These platforms support early warning, redress human rights violations, and integrate traditional leaders, youth, and local vigilantes into local peace systems. A pocket directory of relevant institutions was also distributed to aid community reporting of rights violations.

A PBF donor meeting on October 29, 2024, showcased project achievements and encouraged local resource mobilization for sustaining efforts beyond the project's end in January 2025. Together, these coordinated actions have created a robust foundation for sustainable peace in Katsina and Kaduna, driven by empowered local actors, inclusive networks, and integrated socio-economic responses.

Monitoring and Oversight Activities

Please describe any key event related to monitoring and oversight. Please click next if no activities have yet taken place.
Events include Steering Committee meetings, Monitoring visits, Third party monitoring, Community based monitoring, any data collection, Perception or other survey findings, evaluation reports, audit or investigations.

Monitoring and oversight activities	Name of the Event	Summary	Key Findings

Event 1	UNDP Conducted MHPSS Baseline Assessment	The assessment critically examines the effectiveness of existing interventions and suggests areas for improvement, focusing specifically on Kaduna and Katsina states and selected local government areas. It highlights the need for an expanded and strengthened early warning response system in affected communities. It, additionally, examines the ethnoreligious and sociocultural dynamics that exacerbate the conflict in the region that disproportionately leaves women and girls as significant victims of the conflict. The findings underscore the urgency for sub-national governments to enhance institutional capacities through social welfare interventions, addressing issues such as poverty, unemployment, illiteracy, and inequalities.	Respondents confirmed the role that women and girls play in the armed conflicts in the state, not just as victims but also, as perpetrators. This is mostly driven by a desire to avenge the deaths of their loved ones, a situation which is further worsened by a perceived lack of injustice and corruption in Kaduna and Katsina states.

Event 2	Ongoing Livelihood Baseline Assessment in Kaduna and Katsina state	UNDP Engaged an external organization to conduct a livelihood assessment in both Kaduna and Katsina states. This is to have a baseline information of livelihood status of targeted beneficiaries in implementing sites.	Agriculture was clearly identified as the predominant economic activity in the communities visited. A sizeable proportion of the respondents in both states cited it as their primary source of income, with 35% in Kaduna and 41% in Katsina. Livestock also plays a significant role in income generation, especially among males in Kaduna (22%) and Katsina (28%). Trade is another prevalent source of income and livelihood, with a relatively higher participation rate among females in Katsina state (see table 9 for further details). Qualitative interviews and FGDs supported these findings, revealing that farming, livestock rearing (more prevalent in Katsina), and trading are the primary sources of livelihood for community members in both states, corroborating the quantitative results.

Event 3	Bi-weekly human rights monitoring activities carried out across 4 LGAs in Kaduna and Katsina States.	The monitoring activities focused on identifying and reporting human rights violation and protection gaps, under various thematic areas around Civil and Political Rights, and Economic, Social and Cultural Rights including incidents of violence, Child protection issues, Women protection issues, Rights of older persons, Persons with disabilities, and Access to Justice etc. This aim to strengthen accountability and improve the efficiency and effectiveness of the security response in the context of conflict and peacebuilding in both states.	This activity has promoted peace and conflict resolution by strengthening referral pathways, promoting platforms for meaningful community engagement, dialogues, and open communication towards human rights protection in these local government areas that have been ravaged by banditry, kidnapping and herders and farmers clashes.

Event 4	The formation of the Farmers and Herders Dialogue Committees in the Local Government Areas in both States	To promote respect for human rights amongst farmers and herders, this committee was created at the district levels of the Kachia and Kaura in Kaduna, and Faskari and Kaita in Katsina States. These community platforms have been involved in settling protracted conflicts between farmers and herders that have resulted in various forms of human rights violations. This has also served as a veritable platform for resolving other human rights issues.	From the monitoring reports which identified displaced individuals/communities and documented various incidents of violence perpetrated by the Fulani herdsmen, including forced displacement, kidnaping, demands of payment of ransom and torture as well as the actions of military and other security personnel, the platform have aided in strengthening the peace architectures and enhancing conflict resolution to engender cohesion.
Event 5	The establishment of the Human Rights Complaint Desk Office at the Local Government Secretariat in Kaduna and Katsina States	This was established to provide a platform for the network of community-based monitors/gatekeepers to report human rights violations, ensuring EWER.	The has recorded significant improvement in the number of human rights complaints received and referred to other agencies for immediate response, building trust in the reporting mechanism.

Event 6	Capacity building component of human rights monitoring	This aims to promote and mainstream a human right based approach to monitoring and interventions on human rights and peace building and to enhance knowledge of human rights and conflict resolution to empower relevant stakeholders and local communities in reporting human rights violations and promote accountability.	This has improved the protection capacities for women agencies in both Katsina and Kaduna states and generally created a climate of acceptance of the PBF intervention by various stakeholders cutting across state and non-state actors. Traditional and community leaders have become key drives of respect for human rights, and monitoring activities in their domain, initiating a roadmap towards a resilience and sustainable peace the states. Regular dialogues on peace are daily routines within the domains of traditional leaders in these four local government areas of Katsina and Kaduna.

Event 7	UN Joint Monitoring Visits in Kaduna and Katsina states	The PBF M&E mission was conducted jointly by UNDP, UN WOMEN and IOM to identify areas that require improvement and make adjustments to ensure that the intended outputs and outcomes are achieved. The rationale is to assess progress in project implementation to date; learn from past efforts and experiences to improve project implementation for the remainder of the project; and provide lessons learned for building sustainable program capacity.	The timely monitoring and documentation of herders' movement patterns have provided valuable insights and early warnings to community members, enabling proactive measures by community members and farmers to prevent conflicts and protect farmland. "Never before have we recorded no destruction of farmlands like this year," says a community leader. Awareness campaign supported by the program, via the Katsina state multidoor courts on reporting of conflicts, using radio jingles increases the number of conflict cases reported to the Katsina state Multi door court. Awareness creation provided through weekly radio jingles and monthly community intergenerational dialogues, has led to an increase in the number of cases reported to the SARC at Kafanchan Kaduna State, and to the GBV Centre in Katsina State.

Event 8	The project endline evaluation has been conducted	The evaluation adopted a mixed-methods approach, involving both qualitative and quantitative data collection. Key Informant Interviews (KIIs), Focus Group Discussions (FGDs), and a beneficiary household survey—conducted in Kaduna (Kachia and Kaura Local Government Areas) and Katsina (Kaita and Faskari Local Government Areas)—provided the foundation for analysis. The evaluation was participatory, engaging a wide range of stakeholders, including government agencies, community leaders, beneficiaries, civil society organizations, and implementing partners. Data triangulation, rigorous quality assurance mechanisms, adherence to ethical protocols, and context analysis contributed to the reliability and credibility of the findings.	One of the main key findings is that the project had a transformative impact at both institutional and community levels. Communities previously embroiled in cycles of violence—particularly involving farmers and herders—reported reduced tensions and improved trust. Regular inter-group dialogues, early warning alerts, and local dispute resolution mechanisms became part of community routines. The institutionalization of trauma healing and community-based psychosocial services helped victims of violence regain confidence, while economic empowerment initiatives supported community stability. Importantly, the inclusion of women, youth, and persons with disabilities in peace processes strengthened the legitimacy and depth of interventions.
