Two-three sentences with a brief project description and succinct explanation of how the project is time sensitive, catalytic and risk-tolerant/ innovative:

This joint project proposes a comprehensive approach to promote an enabling community and policy environment conducive to women and girls' empowerment and their active engagement in peacebuilding and inclusive community development in communities affected by migration and prone to conflict in the Kyrgyz Republic, and particularly in the Southern regions of Kyrgyzstan.

The project will contribute to the empowerment of women and girls most vulnerable to migration, by improving their participation in peacebuilding and inclusive community development, enhancing their access to socio-economic opportunities and building capacities-of women and girls. The target groups include: 1) girls and women vulnerable to forced migration (unemployed, divorced women and girls vulnerable to forced migration/potential future migrants); 2) returning migrant women and girls (who may be potentially forced to re-migrate).

As the vulnerabilities created by the migration of Kyrgyz women and girls are in most occasions a consequence of harmful gender norms shaped in society which eventually contribute to the decrease of women's agency in community development, the proposed project will be crucial and catalytic to undertake actions towards changing community attitude by promoting positive norms in support of women empowerment and recognition of women migrants' role in peaceful community development. The project will not only target migrant women and girls, but also men and boys as well as relevant community members in target locations.

As the unique initiative led by the UN in Kyrgyzstan that specifically aims at addressing the challenges of women and girls migrants in peacebuilding and community development, the proposed joint project will be catalytic as it will contribute to introducing gender considerations in peacebuilding processes that involve a migration dimension at policy and legislative levels in the country, in particular through the localization of the Women, Peace and Security (WPS) agenda, identifying positive practices and their replication showcasing the recognition of women migrants' contribution to community development as well as enhancing economic opportunities for women migrants using innovative techniques.

The project is fully supported by the Kyrgyz authorities as it aims to accelerate the implementation of the 2017-2020 Peacebuilding Priority Plan (PPP) while addressing the outcomes of the review of the National Action Plan (NAP) on UNSCR1325 implementation, that was conducted in 2018. As such, this project will address identified critical gaps in the peacebuilding process in the Kyrgyz Republic by tackling conflict risks related to the lack of inclusion and economic opportunities for a particularly vulnerable group of women migrants in Kyrgyzstan, otherwise qualified as economic violence against women.

The project was designed to mitigate and tolerate the risks of potential pushback from policymakers and community members who are resistant to accept changes and positive gender norms, through innovative tools and methods to engage with community members, particularly men and boys, such as the GALS (Gender Action Learning System) methodology.

Summarize the in-country project consultation and endorsement process prior to submission to PBSO, including through any PBF Steering Committee where it exists, including whether civil society and target communities were consulted and how:

The proposal was conceptualized following a participatory approach, through a series of consultations at the national and local levels. As such, the RUNOs have conducted the following consultations:

- Two consultation meetings involving Forum of Women MPs, State Agency on Local Self-Governments and Interethnic Relations, State Migration Service, local government representatives and local NGOs working towards gender equality and women empowerment, peacebuilding, migration and employment
- One consultation meeting with the Federation of Trade Unions, JIA Business Association, Public Fund “Alliance of Trainers and Consultants” (BDS-ILO-SIYB)
- One consultation meeting with a representative of the Office of the President
- Four consultations with a group of 15 women migrants (from southern regions of Kyrgyzstan, who have migration experience, aged between 19-35), including women migrants returning to their communities of origin in the south of Kyrgyzstan

During the project development, RUNOs have consulted with representatives of Department of civil development, religious and ethnic policies (co-chair of Joint Steering Committee) on project idea, project outcomes and possible target beneficiaries and localities. As a result, it was advised to strengthen project’s coherence with National Development Strategy 2040 and recommendations regarding migration policy development.

In addition to these meetings with key stakeholders and target population, when elaborating the joint proposal, IOM, UN Women and ILO took into consideration the results of the 2016 UN-led nationwide Gender in Society Perception Study on women and labor migration (GSPS) with over 350 respondents (27 focus group discussions, 35 in-depth interviews, 18 case-studies, 88 interviews with women migrants, their families and community members) to ensure that the proposed joint intervention is fully aligned and will address the main recommendations of the GSPS Study, related to the (i) provision of greater state support and advice to potential migrant workers and returnees to ensure they know their rights and can access services including health care, social insurance, civil documentation (such as birth registration) and legal aid; (ii) awareness-raising campaigns on the feminization of migration and the positive contributions that migration can make to the development-rights nexus to address popular negative perceptions of women working abroad; and (iii) support for mentoring schemes and networks between successful women migrants and women who are considering working abroad; support women's self-help groups to be able to claim their rights and improve their access to empowerment opportunities.

Overall, the national consultations and the review of the GSPS Study have contributed to the conflict analysis and helped to identify challenges and needs to be addressed in Kyrgyzstan:

- There is a lack of institutional capacity to tackle migration related issues targeting women and girls, and a poor alignment of migration national policies to peace and conflict prevention.
- Women migrants are increasingly advocating for their rights while voicing the challenges they face during and post migration, including stigma from families and communities; women migrants pledge for a better recognition from both the authorities and the society, for their sacrifices and contribution, including through remittances.
- While the Kyrgyz government recognizes the issues related to migration among women and girls, including returning women migrants, and the challenges of harmful gender norms in the community, there is a lack of understanding of the role and contribution that women and girls can bring to peacebuilding and community development.
- The coordination between state bodies, local authorities and communities on the field of gender, migration and peacebuilding is minimal. There is no government agency coordination mechanism to register and provide assistance to returning migrants, including women and girls, and there is no state program to ensure their sustainable reintegration on community level.
- Community awareness on the current WPS agenda, globally and at the national level is limited. Conflict risks include tension between home communities and returning migrants, including women and girls, over scarce resources and frustration with lack of prospects; which in turn can undermine the peacebuilding efforts in the country.

I. Peacebuilding Context and Rationale for PBF support (4 pages max)

- a) A brief summary of conflict analysis findings as they relate to this project, focusing on the driving factors of tensions/conflict that the project aims to address and an analysis of the main actors/ stakeholders that have an impact on or are impacted by the driving factors, which the project will aim to engage. This analysis must be gender- and age- sensitive.

According to the Conflict and Peace Analysis (CPA, 2019), 59.6% of all labour migrants from Kyrgyzstan (approximately 476,800) are women. Most of them come from less privileged social backgrounds and originate from Southern regions of Kyrgyzstan. The main drivers of migration among women and men are the same: poverty, unemployment and community tensions over resources, power etc. However, women become more vulnerable to be forced by their families to migrate constituting the main driver of women's migration.

The dynamics of migration in and out of an area where dynamics of exclusion and marginalization prevail creates particular vulnerabilities for two specific groups of women and girls affected by migration: a) girls who have less control over the decision to migrate than men – are often forced to migrate by their families; and b) women returning from migration back to the communities of origin as a result of divorce or family break-up who later become victims of post-divorce stigmatization from family members and are forced by them to re-migrate.⁶

Women and girls are forced to migrate by families to work abroad as they are seen as more patient, hardworking and willing to sacrifice for the family. Families perceive migration for their families as a solution of last resort, a family-level coping mechanism, which women and girls resort to out of economic and financial necessity, rather than expression of their fully free and independent will. Families also perceive migration for their daughters as the only pathway to escape from gendered risks and vulnerabilities at home such as kidnapping for the purpose of forced marriage or post-divorce stigmatization, not considering any other options including employment opportunities at the local level.⁷ As a result, girls and women forced to migrate face a highly uncertain future during migration or face risks of becoming victims of potential conflict or violence if they stay. Women, those returning from labor migration due to divorce or other reasons, become stigmatized in their communities for so called “immoral behavior” and psychologically and economically isolated in households where they resided. Consequently, the desire of families to avoid stigma and social isolation forces women to ‘settle’ in the country of destination for permanent residence. In other words, the reasons which give rise to the migration of women and girls from their communities turn into causes for their systematic exclusion upon their return back home.

Forced migration of women and girls⁸ has a clear link to the level of gender-based discrimination and violence towards women, thus the increase of forced migration is observed in southern regions of Kyrgyzstan where traditional patriarchal views on women's role dominate as well as conflict tensions lead to gender-based violence. Both at the community and family levels, women's role is often limited to obedient wife, housemaker or caring mother, women are considered the property of male family members – with young women and girls at risk of kidnapping for the purpose of marriage or being burdened with disproportionate chores in their households. Women's opinions on public matters are generally valued less, with men taking responsibility for decision-making and community leadership roles.⁹ These harmful gender norms are being imposed on women and girls affected by migration as well. Thus, because of entrenched gender roles and perceptions in society of what women can do, women migrants are limited in decision making and access to resources throughout the whole migration circle. First, girls and women are forced to migrate to support livelihood of their families. Unprepared and uneducated for migration, girls become more vulnerable for exploitation and trafficking during migration who are obliged to send most of their income to support families and households back in the country of origin. Many studies confirm women are not allowed to decide how to spend their remittances, this decision to be made by family members, particularly by male one, which means that women-migrants do not gain an ownership over their earning during migration. Upon return from migration, women and girls do not receive recognition for their hard-earned money from families either. Even though the government and migrant communities recognize the importance of remittances as crucial source of income for the families and development of the country,¹⁰ women migrants, who make up majority of labor migrants, are still not recognized for their contribution even after the remittances gender gap has been closed. Similarly, communities do not recognize women's ability and rights to participate in decision-making and conflict resolution efforts. Eventually, lacking in decision-making, gaining no recognition from family members and community, stigmatized and eventually forced to leave back to the country of destination, women migrants and girls forced to migrate seem to be completely removed from community life.

Despite the disproportionate effects that violence, exclusion and migration have on women, exacerbated by harmful gender norms in the community, unfavorable attitudes of community to recognition of women's rights, other obstacles to women's full participation in community development and conflict prevention initiatives, economic barriers (low differential access/control of financial resources), gendered poverty caused by inequitable division of labour between men and women and community discord, there is a lack of understanding of the gendered drivers of conflict and the importance of women's participation in community life in Kyrgyzstan.

Gender-based discrimination of women and girls resulting in increased migration outflows can exacerbate conflicts at the community level. According to CPA (2019), there is a strong correlation between increased migration outflows and spread of conflicts in communities. Communities with increased migration outflows became more prone to conflicts due to social disbalance characterized by youth and women outflow in communities affected by migration leads to non-inclusive decision making, pervasive marginalization or underrepresented groups, non-representative power structures and increased incidents of discriminatory practices which can give a rise to community tensions and inter-community conflict citing the examples of multi-ethnic communities in Osh and Jalal-Abad or cross-border communities in Batken.

Such communities characterized by lack of women's inclusion in conflict prevention due to increased migration outflows among women and girls, and unequal distribution of power and economic resources towards male domination are more vulnerable to conflicts over and further escalation of community tensions since women can act as engines of peace during in conflict resolution as well as prevent conflicts. As an example, during the tensions that broke out in March 2019 along the border between Kyrgyzstan and Tajikistan leaving two dead and causing large scale displacement, activists and women from the affected communities reported that women were generally not informed about the situation and were excluded from peace negotiations. On the other hand, conflict risks include tensions between home communities and returning migrants, including women and girls over scarce of resources and frustration with lack of prospects can also undermine peacebuilding efforts in the country.

¹⁰ GSPS Report (2016), op. cit.

Given the country's multiple political and economic challenges, the significant impact of women's leadership and participation in ensuring sustainable peacebuilding and conflict prevention and resolution has been proven by the review of the NAP on UNSCR 1325 implementation (2018) and serves as an engine of peace.

Overall, Kyrgyzstan has made impressive progress in peacebuilding and the country has a strong normative base for greater attention paid to women's rights and women's activism in peacebuilding by adopting the 2017-2020 Peacebuilding Priority Plan (PPP) with gender lense and launching a National Action Plan (NAP) on the implementation of UNSCR 1325 for 2018-2020. However, at the community level, the implementation of the national legislation on gender equality is weak due to deeply entrenched patriarchal norms, gender stereotypes and lack of rule of law. Gender-based discrimination and violence affect women's participation in political, economic and social life which results in decrease of women's participation in decision making at national and local levels. This manifested in the percentage of female members in local councils which has backslid to 10% in 2016, a historical low comparing to figures in 1998 (37%).

Given the fact that feminization of migration has grown rapidly for the past 5 years, the project is aimed to work on different levels including a) community level by working with community members to change public perception and social norms to build community environment conducive to women migrants' engagement in peacebuilding b) policy level to introduce gender responsive policies to recognize the role of women migrants and their contributions and c) women and girls migrants to be empowered to participate in community development, decision-making and peacebuilding initiatives on the local level.

The underpinning logic of the project is based on the consideration that forced migration of women and girls¹¹ constitute a destabilizing factor to the social cohesion and visible barrier to women's engagement in peacebuilding of the country as whole.

- b) A brief description of how the project aligns with/ supports existing Governmental and UN strategic frameworks, how it ensures national ownership and how the project builds on any previous phase of PBF support and/or any concrete lessons learned.

This project supports the implementation of the NAP on UN SCR 1325, facilitated by the Roadmap of the Forum of Women Parliamentarians of the Kyrgyz Republic on WPS with an effort to localize WPS agenda. The rate of migration from conflict-affected territories are higher than national average. Although, labour migration is partly considered as conflict mitigating factor, women labour migrants (59.6% of all migrants) (UN, 2015), are sometimes described as being particularly vulnerable to discrimination and radicalization.

In line with the 2017-2020 Peacebuilding Priority Plan (PPP), this project addresses a critical gap in the peacebuilding process in the Kyrgyz Republic by tackling conflict risks related to lack of economic opportunities for women in Kyrgyzstan, otherwise qualified as economic violence against women.

The project addresses the UNDAF 2018-2022 Priority II (Good governance and the rule of law), where the UN system strengthens Government efforts to prevent conflicts, crime, and violence and create conditions for a peaceful society, including through a stronger, more cohesive response to structural factors, including migration with women migrants among the key target groups (experiencing social exclusion, lack of recognition, and lack of trust in their community networks).

The project will foster collaboration between state and non-state bodies in CVE in line with the draft National Programme on Countering Extremism and Terrorism (NAP on CVE) 2017-2022, which calls for strengthening the prevention activities with target groups, largely through the existing partnership with diasporas, including labour migrants and diasporas.

The project will facilitate the process of development of the National Migration Policy in socially inclusive and gender-sensitive way in line with the National Strategy on Sustainable Development's appeal for full and meaningful participation of women at decision-making processes in political, economic and social life; as well as enhancing support to labor migrants within its social development priority area.

This project will contribute to bridging the gap between the Kyrgyz government's stated policy objectives on the elimination of gender inequality (through its National Strategy for Gender Equality 2012-2020). Specifically, the project is aligned to the National Action Plan on Gender Equality (NAP on GE) 2018-2020 (enabling environment for decent work) to contribute to Women Economic Empowerment priority area.

II. Project content, strategic justification and implementation strategy (4 pages max Plus Results Framework Annex)

- a) A brief description of the project content – in a nutshell, what are the main results the project is trying to achieve, the implementation strategy, and how it addresses the conflict causes or factors outlined in Section I (must be gender- and age- sensitive).

This project proposes a comprehensive approach to creating a conducive environment for women migrants' empowerment in communities affected by migration and prone to conflict, their safe return to their communities from migration and their engagement in community life and peacebuilding processes both at the institutional and community levels. It introduces innovative, social and behavior change methodologies to create an enabling environment for women to be involved in economic initiatives, to have more informed choices and to reach their potential as peacebuilders and leaders in their communities. It will facilitate the local positive social practice to empower women migrants, played by the various forms of interaction based at the community level and social integration that possibly previously occurred in the communities involved.

Project will work both at the institutional and community levels by collaborating with key stakeholders, including State Migration Service to promote gender-sensitive state migration policy, the Forum of Women MPs, responsible ministries and agencies for implementation of the NAPs on Gender Equality and the UNSR 1325, LSGs, CSOs and community leaders and women and girls affected by migration.

Prevalence of harmful gender norms and attitudes towards women in communities resulted in the growing tendency of forced migration, which, in turn, negatively affected women's participation in community development. As the feminization of migration is quite a recently shaped gender pattern, it is important to take actions to promote positive image of women migrants by engaging positive deviants in communities to change public perceptions and social norms that eventually will contribute to building inclusive community environment conducive to women's agency.

The key premise of the project is that a 'forced migration of women and girls' is a significant violation of human rights because migration should be voluntary and informed. The harmful gender norms and attitude of the community towards women's rights and contribution to community development is a destabilizing factor of the social cohesion and visible barrier to women's engagement in peacebuilding of the country as whole.

To reinforce the women and girls migrants' role in peacebuilding, the project will focus on empowerment of women migrants through promoting positive gender norms towards recognition of women's contribution to community development, strengthening their agency in decision-making and supporting women's activism in economic activities. The project will also increase recognition of their contributions and strengthening their agency in promoting new women-led economic activities.

- b) Provide a project-level 'theory of change' – i.e. explain the type of change envisaged by the project and how do you expect the project interventions to lead to results and why have these interventions been selected. What are the assumptions that the theory is based on?

(Note: Change may happen through various and diverse approaches, i.e. social cohesion may be fostered through dialogue or employment opportunities or joint management of infrastructure. The selection of which approach should depend on context-specific factors. What basic assumptions about how change will occur have driven your choice of programming approach?)

Development project goal: The project aims to make a tangible contribution to peacebuilding in Southern regions of Kyrgyzstan by promoting the full recognition of the role of women and girls migrants in inclusive community development and peacebuilding.

IF communities affected by migration and risks of violence positively perceive the role of women and girls to participate in community development and peacebuilding;

IF women and girls living in communities affected by migration are empowered and equipped with knowledge and skills to protect their political, economic and civic rights, and provided with access to resources, decent work and sustainable livelihood opportunities and

IF women and girls returning to their home communities are provided with opportunities for better inclusion and livelihoods;

IF national and local authorities are equipped to apply socially inclusive approaches in policymaking and implement gender-responsive peacebuilding at the local level in target communities;

THEN women and girls in communities that are affected by migration and risk of violence can meaningfully be included in the political, economic and social life of their societies, take part in inclusive community development and peacebuilding, which will help mitigate the challenges for women and girls at highest risk

BECAUSE community members will break down/change existing harmful gender norms and recognize girls and women's role in community development and peacebuilding;

BECAUSE national and local authorities will better understand challenges that migrant women and girls face and the role and contributions that migrant women and girls can have in the peacebuilding process;

BECAUSE national and local authorities will be more inclined and able to design and implement national policies and legislation that are more inclusive and gender-sensitive;

BECAUSE women and girls will be economically and socially empowered and have agency/be enabled to make informed decisions and participate in decision-making at community level.

- c) Project result framework, outlining all project outcomes, outputs, activities with indicators of progress, baselines and targets (must be gender- and age- sensitive). Use Annex B; no need to provide additional narrative here.

Outcome 1: Target communities recognize and support women and girls' role and contribution to peacebuilding and community development.

This outcome will facilitate the knowledge sharing to light the local positive social practice to empower women migrants and positive perception within the target communities and wider networks about the role of women and girls affected by migration to participate in community development and peacebuilding, and show how gender relations change over the time.

Output 1.1. Target communities have access to accurate information and knowledge on the role of women and girls in peacebuilding. The first step in ensuring women's inclusion and empowerment in target communities is to ensure the potential and positive contributions of women as change agents are recognized by their communities. To address the gap in gendered analysis and research linked to peacebuilding highlighted in the context analysis, the project will start by conducting an assessment to identify existing attitudes towards women migrants and their role in community development and peacebuilding. Through this output, public information campaigns and outreach activities will be conducted to demonstrate the positive potential and contribution of women and girls migrants to community development and peacebuilding.

Output 1.2. Target communities increase awareness on harmful attitudes and practices of gender norms towards women and girls in migrant communities.

In order to foster a positive change in attitude within the target communities related to gender equality and women's empowerment, the project will include activities to identify and engage positive gender norm holders in target communities and implement GALS¹² in pilot communities to address harmful gender norms and attitudes towards women and girls affected by migration, which envisages working with men and boys, as well as other family and community members.

Outcome 2. Women and girls in communities affected by migration are empowered politically, economically and socially to protect their rights and participate in peaceful community development.

This Outcome will ensure women and girls affected by migration in target communities are equipped with knowledge and skills to effectively advocate for their basic rights and have an improved access to economic opportunities to strengthen their financial capabilities through specific skills development scheme. Being involved in self-help groups will create and reinforce new positive values in gender relations. This will enhance meaningful participation of women and girls affected by migration in the community development and peacebuilding.

Output 2.1. Women and girls in target communities are equipped with knowledge and skills to effectively advocate for their rights.

In order to empower and capacitate women and girls migrants, this output will focus on awareness raising and skill development for targeted groups of women and girls, by organizing self-help groups for women and girls, conducting thematic trainings to strengthen their capacities, and awareness-raising campaigns on gender equality and organize joint peacebuilding initiative in support of Local Action Plans (LAPs).

Output 2.2. Women and girls in migrant communities have an improved access to economic (employment and self-employment) opportunities.

The output will address exclusionary dynamics through conducting a participatory gap analysis and then adapting and contextualizing ILO tools such as Gender and Entrepreneurship Together (GET Ahead), and Do-Not-Harm approach and complement it with information on business continuity management in the event of shocks, including violence

Output 2.3. Women and girls have strengthened their financial capabilities and have access to gender-sensitive financial products.

This output will address the lack of gender-sensitive financial products for women migrants and will enhance capacity of women migrants by providing them necessary financial literacy through conducting gender-based assessment to assess financial services available to women in targeted communities; strengthening capacities of financial service providers to offer adapted gender sensitive financial products to women, adapting ILO training material on financial education to the needs of women migrants and conducting a training of trainers (ToT) on financial education.

Output 2.4. Skills development scheme for women designed and implemented.

Through this output, the project will empower women migrants to start their own small economic opportunities and to actively contribute to the community development. This will include mapping of skills providers and identifying skills for women starting their micro/small enterprises/access to VCD opportunities in the targeted communities and conducting skills trainings for women to promote successful business start-up and facilitate women access to VCD opportunities.

listening and leadership skills; cooperation between women and men; and strategic thinking and planning. The main overarching goal of GALS is to promote a sustainable gender equality movement, not just by building theoretical diagrams or utilising different teaching methods, but rather through a more participatory approach where ownership lies in the hands of the participants. The methodology is aimed at generating open discussions in society around gender, in order for all people to equally recognize that they must make major gender related changes in their country to ensure equal treatment and conditions for men and women

Outcome 3. National and local authorities apply socially inclusive approaches in policy making and implement gender-responsive peacebuilding at the local level in communities affected by migration.

This Outcome will ensure key national and local processes and mechanisms are conducive to participation of women and girls affected by migration in peacebuilding and community development. Specific focus will be on drafting gender-responsive state migration policy, which will be aligned to respective national strategies around peacebuilding and GEWE.

Output 3.1. A draft gender-responsive state migration policy is produced.

This output will address lack of recognition of women migrants' contribution to the community and country development as most part of remittances coming to Kyrgyzstan are transferred by women migrants as well as the need to make migration policy gender sensitive and responsive through supporting the development of a draft gender-responsive state migration policy in line with e-listing national peacebuilding policies and plans, organizing workshops for national and local authorities on migration issues, gender-responsive peacebuilding and socially inclusive approaches in community development etc.

Output 3.2. Local authorities in pilot communities affected by migration and prone to conflict are able to develop and implement Local Action Plans (LAPs) on gender-responsive peacebuilding in line with NAP 1325.

In order to address the needs of women and girls on a level of local authorities in pilot communities and their participation in community peacebuilding, the project will organize local security councils to localize WPS agenda in pilot communities, develop roadmaps on the implementation of LAPs, develop policy recommendations to inform NAP on UNSCR 1325 based on outcomes of community engagement on behavior and social norm change etc.

- d) Project targeting and sequencing strategy – provide justification for geographic zones, criteria for beneficiary selection, expected number and type of beneficiaries and justification, timing among various activities, any measures to ensure coherence and connection between outcomes, and any other information on implementation approach (must be gender- and age-sensitive). No need to repeat all outputs and activities from the Result Framework.

The project will be implemented in six target municipalities of southern provinces of Kyrgyzstan (Batken, Jalal-Abad and Osh) since according to State Migration Service, Batken, Jalal-Abad and Osh provinces have the biggest migration outflows of women and girls migrants. Two municipalities in each province will be selected in collaboration with national partners based on following criteria: localities with biggest outflow of migration, prone to conflict, and decreased women's representation in local councils.

In total, the project will target 6,000 beneficiaries including men and boys as one of the gender norm holders to be engaged within awareness-raising activities, of which 1,500 girls and women will be directly involved within project interventions.

Main target group (in total 1500 to be engaged):

- women and girls in targeted communities prone to conflicts will be provided trainings to strengthen their advocacy abilities to stand for their rights and to increase their knowledge on WPS agenda as well which will allow them to participate in peacebuilding activities on the local level

Other target groups (approximately 4500):

- men and boys in targeted communities to be engaged in awareness-raising activities including GALS activities to promote gender norms in support of women and girls affected by migration to participate in inclusive community development and peacebuilding

- community population to be engaged during whole project cycle including needs assessment, identifying target groups of women and girls migrants, awareness raising activities and joint implementation of peacebuilding activities inclusive to women migrants' participation
- local stakeholders (local government and authorities, local NGOs) will be engaged from the very beginning of the project, but most importantly when developing LAPs on WPS Agenda and joint implementation of peacebuilding activities along with women and girls migrants
- national stakeholders engaged when developing draft of State Migration Policy to be gender sensitive towards women migrants and during capacity building workshops to understand the needs of women migrants and establish SoPs on the local level on how to provide assistance to women migrants

To reach out to target beneficiaries, the project will use the well-established partnerships between the UN and local government, particularly in identification of women and girls affected by migration in target areas as well as non-governmental stakeholders in identification of positive deviants supporting harmless gender norms in target communities. Also, the activation and further use of the referral mechanism that will benefit women migrants which will allow them to access social services and consultations from state counterparts to be developed and established under this joint initiative.

Project interventions will follow a bottom-up approach and will be built on sequencing efforts: first work on community level (approximately, first 6 months) then involve LSGs and empowerment instruments, and then inform national level policy documents to ensure evidence-based policy making. To ensure coherence between agency's interventions, RUNOs will conduct regular meetings to coordinate joint actions and towards delivering outputs.

Possible gaps in legislations and policies which will hinder migration policy development processes	Medium	Project team will conduct regular consultations with all involved stakeholders to discuss the challenges and gaps and ways to overcome it
Weak implementation capacity of local stakeholders and implementing partners	Medium	The RUNOs will establish rigorous selection process of implementing partners and will regularly monitor the project implementation
Challenges to gaining the buy in and trust of communities that follow conservative religious culture	Medium	All RUNOs have established good partnership relationships with religious leaders during the implementation of previous projects including PBF projects. All RUNOs will follow “Do No Harm” principle and gender-sensitive approach as well as conflict sensitivity principles throughout the project implementation.
Harmful gender norms are impenetrable to activities aimed at instigating change in social norms including risk of backlash from community members with patriarchal traditional views	Medium	The RUNOs will use methodologies to work with men and boys and the rest of communities on awareness of positive gender norms, GEWE (GALS methodology, BCC and positive cases of women-migrants) The RUNOs will follow “Do No Harm” principle in working with community members

- d) Monitoring and evaluation – What will be the M&E approach for the project, including M&E expertise in the project team and main means and timing of collecting data? Include a break-down of M&E budget that the project is putting aside, including for collection of baseline and end line data for indicators and for an independent evaluation, and an approximate M&E timeline. Ensure at least 5-7% of the project budget is set aside for M&E activities, including sufficient funds for a quality independent evaluation.

This initiative will include a strong M&E component in order to build knowledge on how empowerment of women and girls affected by migration can contribute to peacebuilding and social cohesion through changes in economic opportunities, inter-group relations, and reduction of grievances.

IOM as a lead agency will take full responsibility for the coordination of M&E responsibilities, through the support of IOM Project Manager, to ensure effective and efficient implementation of the project. RUNOs will work together to prepare a common annual joint plan and M&E plan for the project with a require budget.

The objective is to ensure that the expected results are achieved. Approximately 7% of total budget will be allocated to M&E. Monitoring, evaluation and reporting of the project will follow the PBF monitoring and evaluation arrangements.

During the first two months of project implementation, RUNOs will develop an M&E plan with a timeframe. Quarterly meetings with implementing partners to review monitoring results will be held through the project implementation circle. In the middle of project implementation RUNOs will organize a meeting to monitor preliminary progress of project implementation and to formulate recommendations on changes to be made. A final independent evaluation will be carried out at the end of the project.

RUNOs will use its M&E tools in order to ensure that M&E component includes comprehensive review to identify project progress against the outputs and indicators. M&E officers in IOM Regional Office in Vienna will provide constant support to IOM Office in Kyrgyzstan during all M&E stages of this project. While measuring project progress, IOM will ensure that project integrates all gender considerations and will include not only gender analysis but also sex and age-disaggregated data.

Based on ILO’s Handbook on “How to monitor and Evaluate Peacebuilding outcomes or employment programmes”, ILO will measure project progress in relation to conflict drivers (Opportunities, Contact and Grievances) in order to monitor and assess the effective contribution of women empowerment and employment to peacebuilding and social cohesion.

UN Women will ensure gender-responsive independent evaluation is in line with the guidelines of the UN Women Evaluation Handbook as well as PBF evaluation guidelines. M&E specialist position on part-time basis will be envisaged for the project to facilitate learning and accountability to project stakeholders.

Breakdown of M&E budget: (7%, USD 101,500)

M&E line	Cost (USD)
Collection of baseline data for indicators	30,000
Collection of endline data for indicators	30,000
Independent evaluation	31,350
Other M&E coordination activities	10,150
Total cost:	101, 500

- e) Project exit strategy/ sustainability – Briefly explain the project’s exit strategy to ensure that the project can be wrapped up at the end of the project duration, either through sustainability measures, agreements with other donors for follow-up funding or end of activities which do not need further support. If support from other donors is expected, explain what the project will do concretely and pro-actively to try to ensure this support from the start. If relevant, what are project links to any existing platforms or partnerships?

RUNOs will develop program exit strategies within project implementation timeframe, including exit strategy on Monitoring and Evaluation. Exit plan will remain flexible with the expectation that some of criteria and benchmarks may need to be modified during the project cycle. Exit plan will be implemented in a phased manner which will allow to apply lessons learnt from earlier steps of project implementation to those come later which will contribute to more sustained project outcomes.

IV. Project budget

If helpful, provide any additional information on projects costs, highlighting any specific choices that have underpinned the budget preparation, especially for personnel, travel or other indirect project support, to demonstrate value for money for the project. Proposed budget for all projects must include funds for independent evaluation. Proposed budget for projects involving non-UN direct recipients must include funds for independent audit.

State clearly in how many tranches the budget will be provided and what conditions will underpin the release of a second or any subsequent tranche. Standard approach is two tranches for UN recipients and three tranches for non-UN recipients with the second tranche being released upon demonstration by the project (by the Coordinating Agency on behalf of the project and through the Resident Coordinator's Office or PBF Secretariat) that the first tranche has been expensed or committed to at least 75% between the recipients and upon completion of any regular PBF reports due in the period elapsed. Additional tranches or conditions may be added depending on the project context, implementation capacity, and level of risk.

Funds transfer will be made in two-performance based tranches. Tranche two will be released upon authorization by PBF that the following benchmarks or conditions have been met:

1. Evidence of expenditure of 80% of the first tranche
2. Completion of baseline survey, regular PBF reports
3. On time uploading to MPTFO Gateway of all required reports

Fill out two tables in the Excel budget Annex D.

If, during the term of this agreement, a Recipient Organization determines that there are credible allegations that funds transferred to it in accordance with this agreement have been used to provide support or assistance to individuals or entities associated with terrorism as designated by any UN Security Council sanctions regime it will as soon as it becomes aware of it inform the head of PBSO, the Administrative Agent and the donor(s) and, in consultation with the donors as appropriate, determine an appropriate response.

Non-UN recipient organization (NUNO) eligibility:

In order to be declared eligible to receive PBF funds directly, NUNOs must be assessed as technically, financially and legally sound by the PBF and its agent, the Multi Partner Trust Fund Office (MPTFO). Prior to submitting a finalized project document, it is the responsibility of each NUNO to liaise with PBSO and MPTFO and provide all the necessary documents (see below) to demonstrate that all the criteria have been fulfilled and to be declared as eligible for direct PBF funds.

The NUNO must provide (in a timely fashion, ensuring PBSO and MPTFO have sufficient time to review the package) the documentation demonstrating that the NUNO:

- Has previously received funding from the UN, the PBF, or any of the contributors to the PBF, in the country of project implementation
- Has a current valid registration as a non-profit, tax exempt organization with a social based mission in both the country where headquarter is located and in country of project implementation for the duration of the proposed grant. - Produces an annual report that includes the proposed country for the grant
- Commissions audited financial statements, available for the last two years, including the auditor opinion letter. The financial statements should include the legal organization that will sign the agreement (and oversee the country of implementation, if applicable) as well as the activities of the country of implementation. (NOTE: If these are not available for the country of proposed project implementation, the CSO will also need to provide the latest two audit reports for a program or project-based audit in country.) The letter from the auditor should also state whether the auditor firm is part of the nationally qualified audit firms.
- Demonstrates an annual budget in the country of proposed project implementation for the previous two calendar years, which is at least twice the annualized budget sought from PBF for the project¹³
- Demonstrates at least 3 years of experience in the country where grant is sought
- Provides a clear explanation of the CSO's legal structure, including the specific entity which will enter into the legal agreement with the MPTF-O for the PBF grant.

¹³ Annualized PBF project budget is obtained by dividing the PBF project budget by the number of project duration months and multiplying by 12.
