3. Context/New Developments

Iraq continues to suffer from political and security instability since the popular uprisings in October 2019. The political protests that arose in the southern governorates of Iraq resulted in the hindering of the work in progress with various governmental institutions. Hundreds of thousands of protestors called for political reformation, a new amended elections law, resignation of the government of Mr. Adel Abdul Mahdi, better employment opportunities, improved healthcare and education systems, and equal opportunities for all. Women's participation in the protests were remarkable. They went out to the streets, surpassing all traditional and restrictive norms to call for their rights and for equal opportunities for women at the political, social, and economic levels. They also called for the government's approval on the endorsement of the Anti-domestic violence Law which has been subjected to the parliament discussions for years now. Protesters also called for a unified structure to represent all women's issues and advocate for women's political engagement and meaningful participation. By the end of 2019, the government resigned, and a new government was formed launching preparations for the new elections and initiating discussions regarding the Elections' Law. The protests continued into year 2020 until March where the overall political situation was further complicated by the COVID-19 outbreak and the resulting lockdown.

COVID-19 has had a massive impact on the health sector in Iraq exerting pressure on health systems currently in place. Many health institutions reported that there was a lack in the number of hospitals and medical clinics, medical equipment and medications as well as a shortage of medical staff. As a result, the government imposed strict health measures (full lockdown and quarantine) to reduce the spread of the virus in March 2020. This caused a minor setback in the implementation of ongoing projects and activities and altered the overall working modality. In response, partners quickly reacted and applied mitigation measures to ensure a timely and active response to such developments as they occurred. They utilised existing virtual platforms to conduct their meetings, debates, trainings and discussions as opposed to the usual face-to-face interventions. In case physical meetings had to be organized, social distancing measures were considered, and all safety precautions were implemented. The partners were also supported technically by the UN Women team in revising their current plans and incorporating innovative and new approaches to respond effectively to COVID-19.

The COVID-19 outbreak not only challenged the health sector in Iraq but has also had vast implications on the economic and social sectors as many individuals lost their businesses and jobs which led to many families suffering from financial instability. It was seen in previous health outbreaks that increased unemployment combined with social isolation will lead to increased rates of gender-based violence (GBV). However, this presented an opportunity for many CSO's and NGO's to strengthen and expand their work in the field of protection and raise awareness on the importance of ending GBV and responding to COVID-19.

On the peacebuilding and WPS front, as a result of the international and local efforts to advance the WPS agenda and promote women inclusion and political participation, the Council of Ministers Secretariat (COMSEC) adopted the 2nd Iraqi National Action Plan (INAP) for the implementation of UNSCR 1325 and officially launched it in December 2020 under the patronage of the Prime Minister Mustafa Kathimi. The endorsement of the 2nd INAP was regarded as an enormous success for all women-led and women rights organisations working in the peacebuilding and WPS fields. With the technical, financial and operational support provided by UNWomen, the INAP was developed in a highly participatory manner which included consultations with more than 60 women-led organizations across the country, COMSEC, representatives from both the Kurdistan Region of Iraq and the Federal Government, and Sectoral Committees operating across 33 Ministries and governmental institutions. UN Women has been leading the support of the development of UNSCR 1325 national action plans in Iraq since 2014, along with UN sister Agencies and the international/local community. The launching ceremony was organized by the Directorate for Women's Empowerment of the General Secretariat of the Council of Ministers.

"I wanted to be an agent of peace, a role model for every woman," she says in talking about her success story in this video: <https://fb.watch/3XuPJLPgsG/>

Success story 2: Resilience of Survivor of Domestic Violence

This is a success story of survivor of domestic violence in Iraq. A 23-year-old woman who got married at the age of 16 and had 3 kids suffered from domestic violence and abuse for 7 years. Her husband treated her badly and inflicted all types of mental and physical pain upon her. On one occasion, her husband tried to burn her by pouring fuel on her body. That is when she fled to live with her uncle who lived in the same neighborhood. Although her family assisted her to file a domestic violence case, the police asked for her personal identification documents which unfortunately were in her husband's possession.

She approached the Listening Center seeking Legal, Psycho-Social and counselling support. The counselor at the center supported her in reaching out to the Family Violence Court and empowered her to tell her story on social media. At first, the woman was worried and uncertain of the situation but then later decided to proceed. She agreed to appear on a TV documentary highlighting Domestic Violence in Iraq and was interviewed by BBC / Arabic.

On May 28, 2020, the woman was on TV and millions watched her story. This brought more visibility on Domestic violence cases and the suffering of women in Iraq. The legal and psychosocial counsellor did not only provide counselling and advice, but also empowered the girl to speak to the media which encouraged other women and girls to do the same.

On the political level, the Anti-domestic Violence Law is still under review and has not been approved yet by the Parliament.

7. Capacity Building of CSOs

UN Women conducted several information sessions in 2020 with all partners to discuss the results frameworks and strengthen the knowledge of CSO's in the operational requirements and processes including procurement, liquidations, reporting, financial forms and tracking sheets. As a result, the knowledge and skills for the financial and management teams were strengthened to lead and manage their projects in an effective manner. In addition, these sessions provided an opportunity for all its participants representing different organisations to share information and their experience on challenges and solutions to common issues regarding project implementation from an operational point of view.

In 2020, due to the COVID-19 pandemic and the social distancing measures and movement restrictions applied in Iraq, conducting face-to-face capacity building trainings was difficult. Therefore, as a risk mitigation measure and to ensure that all trainings are provided to partners, UNWomen developed an online learning platform to digitize all training content and provide an interactive online learning experience. The platform includes many features such as live sessions, quizzes and group meetings. Three trainings will be provided to partners focusing on Monitoring and Evaluation, Project Cycle Management (PCM) and proposal writing. The PCM training has been developed in 2020 and the other two are under development and will be ready in 2021.

8. Risks and Mitigation

Using the table below, identify any risks that occurred during the reporting period and assess their i) risk level; ii) likelihood of it occurring; and iii) the impact this risk would have on the project, programme, or country. What are the mitigation measures to minimize the risk to prevent it or respond to it if it occurs?

Risk Area	Risk Level	Likelihood	Impact	Mitigation
Contextual, Programmatic, Institutional	4=Very High 3=High 2=Medium 1=Low	5=Very High 4=Likely 3=Possible 2=Unlikely 1=Rare	5=Extreme 4=Major 3=Moderate 2=Minor 1=Insignificant	Mitigating measures undertaken during the reporting period (please include new risks, if any)
Stability of post -conflict situations at impacted governorates.	3	3	5	Women and children are trained in managing and on PVE.

COVID19 pandemic and movement restrictions	3	4	4	Increase safety and health measures and limit number of contact between individuals in face-to-face events and workshops. Conduct campaigns and training sessions online where possible to avoid spreading the COVID-19 virus. Obtaining approvals and authorizations to conduct events and move freely when needed ensuring all protection measures (masks/gloves) are considered.
CSOs were not familiar with the online platform launched to support CSO's in monitoring implementation for UNSCR 1325.	1	4	2	The partner assigned one CSO as focal point in each governorate. The partner announced a google questionnaire with pillars and indicators of NAP. The focal points communicated with the CSOs in each governorate and were able to collect data and upload the 2019 CSO report on the platform.

9. Delays and Adaptations/Revisions

As COVID-19 related restrictions were enforced, alternative virtual platforms and systems (e.g. Zoom) were used to conduct meetings at community level. To ensure that the required trainings were implemented as planned, UN Women developed an online learning interactive platform specifically designed to meet the needs of UN Women beneficiaries and partners. The platform includes many features such as online certified courses, live interactive sessions and group meetings. Despite the challenges related to the use of innovative technologies and tools (including for access and use) and particularly for vulnerable population groups, the adoption of online platforms enabled UN Women to expand the engagement and participation of Iraqi women and girls across Iraq and in diaspora.

There were some delays in activity implementation caused by the lockdown imposed by the government due to COVID-19 and the movement restrictions. Partners organised virtual meetings with UN Women project management team to revise their plans, budgets and plan accordingly.

10. Lessons Learned

Identify Challenge/Describe Challenges can be programmatic or operational affecting the project implementation, or of an organization or community.	What are the factors/reasons contributing to this challenge?	How was the challenge addressed? What was done differently, or what will be done to address the challenge?	Lesson Learned As a result of the challenge what did you (and partners) learn from the situation that has helped to inform the project, or improve how the project is implemented or for future interventions?
Delay in the implementation of some activities	Political Protests affecting security situation	Some activities were postponed or relocated to ensure that implementation is done under safe circumstances.	It is important to ensure that contingency plans are developed to avoid delays in implementation.
Delay in the implementation of some activities	Covid-19 pandemic and restrictions due to the quarantine and social distancing	Partner organizations adopted remote communication tools when necessary such as Zoom to conduct meetings, workshops and events.	Online virtual meetings and workshops proved to be effective in reaching out to individuals from all around the country. In addition, the recording feature proved useful as it provided an opportunity for participants who could not attend the event to access the recording when needed.

10. Lessons Learned
Some beneficiaries do not have access to online tools or a decent network connection.	Some beneficiaries live in areas with weak internet services or cannot afford a personal computer	Partner organizations supported beneficiaries in every way possible and maintained communication with either over the phone or in person where possible.	Access of internet and technology is an urgent need for many traumatized women so that they can receive counselling at urgent times. The hotline is important and survivors of GBV and SGBV need to know how to access to it.
Lack of gender-perspective is still an obstacle that needs to be addressed on the political, economic, and social levels.	Culture of maleness and superiority of men over women for the virtue of their gender	Partner organizations addressed this issue in all meetings, workshops, and conferences	Awareness raising on gender equality and women empowerment is essential for the male population and more men need to be targeted.
Increased health risks due to COVID-19 for women living in regions with limited access to healthcare services	Cultural restrictions on women's movement	Partner organizations put additional efforts voluntarily to distribute hygiene kits and health counselling to families	Women's access to health services is essential and more focus needs to be put on this issue during programme development.

11. Innovations and Best Practices
Advocacy campaigns on Covid-19 and GBV Advocacy campaigns on social media provided an opportunity to reach out to the public with many messages promoting UNSCR 1325, GBV, Anti domestic violence law, human rights violations towards women activists and responding to COVID-19. Online meetings, debates, consultations encouraged members of the local community and the government representing different institutions to engage in discussions and collaborate to provide protection mechanism to all, especially those who live in areas with limited access to healthcare services and facilities. Members from police, judicial courts, CSOs, and health care providers participated in these campaigns. In 2020, women participated more in TV shows and interviews speaking about their experience in combatting GBV which further supported advocacy towards endorsing the Anti-family Violence Law in Iraq.
