COMMUNICATIONS AND VISIBILITY STRATEGY

Promoting Women's Engagement in Waste Management to Prevent Conflict in Sri Lanka

May 2020

PURPOSE OF BRANDING GUIDELINES

The Communications and Visibility Strategy will be the programme's guidance in its 15-month duration, for all strategic actions:

- Ensuring consistent visibility of the whole programme to
 - Promote active participation of stakeholders in the activity;
 - Raise awareness among the civil society and the broader population of the programme objectives and achieved results;
 - Ensure that the beneficiaries are aware of the roles of Chrysalis, UNOPS and UN Women Regional Office for Asia and the Pacific and UN Women Sri Lanka Programme Presence; and to
 - Support attitudinal and behavioural change.
- Sharing results with the stakeholders of the project and communicating with relevant target groups for a range of purposes (such as information dissemination, awareness raising, changing attitudes and stimulating participation).

The guidelines below will assist you in how the logos and the project name can be used in visibility materials, the media and reporting. The logos will not be needed for day-to-day social media posts.

Note: Equal visibility must be given to all agencies involved; namely, Chrysalis, UNOPS and UN Women Regional Office for Asia and the Pacific and UN Women Sri Lanka Programme Presence

Promoting Women's Engagement in Waste Management to Prevent Conflict in Sri Lanka

Logo Rationale: The outer circles with arrows symbolically depict the waste recycling process and the colours speak to the diversity of the project we will be celebrating. The green leaves are possible outcomes of the project where we expect a peaceful and green society and economy. The clipart of woman, man and young person describes the collective effort of all segments of society irrespective of gender, class, caste, ethnicity and religious difference.

VISIBILITY APPLICATIONS

- Press Release

- Websites

Since this is a joint project, a common web-page for the project will be hosted within the official UN Sri Lanka website: <https://lk.one.un.org>

This page will also host a brief video on what the project is about, including funding details. Hence all queries on this project by partners and media should be directed to this page.

- Visual products [Display banners, Backdrops etc]

- Videos: Please note that in all videos produced, this image will need to be the closing slide.

- Power Point Presentations:

Cover slide and subsequent slides:

BOILERPLATE

A boilerplate, usually found at the end of a press release, briefly and concisely describes the programme to external audiences.

Programme Boilerplate: The project 'Promoting Women's Engagement in Waste Management to Prevent Conflict in Sri Lanka' takes an innovative, integrated approach to peacebuilding, tackling ethno-religious tensions by bringing communities together to provide a sustainable solution for a shared environmental issue, with women at the forefront for conflict prevention. Solid waste management (SWM) related interventions will be used as a unique vehicle for uniting communities on a common issue. The project will focus on empowering women by supporting their engagement in governance mechanisms and in community resilience initiatives; it will also explore creating economic opportunities and initiating peacebuilding activities to allay communal tensions related to waste management and beyond.

UN Women Boilerplate: UN Women is the UN organization dedicated to gender equality and the empowerment of women. A global champion for women and girls, UN Women was established to accelerate progress on meeting their needs worldwide. For more information, visit <https://asiapacific.unwomen.org>"

UNOPS Boilerplate: UNOPS operations in Sri Lanka focus on social and economic development projects that build in-country national capacity. UNOPS supports infrastructure needs at innovation, policy and implementation levels, through involvement in disaster risk reduction and management for sustainable and resilient infrastructure. <https://www.unops.org/sri-lanka>

Chrysalis Boilerplate: 'Chrysalis is a Company Limited by Guarantee and an Affiliate of CARE International. We embody the knowledge and learning from CARE Sri Lanka's 60 years of operations. Our focus is on empowering Women and Youth, because we believe that they are the leaders and drivers of change and transformation, required for Sri Lanka to fulfil its potential. There are diverse and multiple challenges experienced by Women and Youth that prevent them from fully participating in the country's development and growth. Our response to this reality is to develop innovative solutions that will turn around this status quo and promote inclusive economic growth'. www.chrysaliscatalyz.com

MEDIA QUERIES

Please refer all media inquiries to info.lk@one.un.org. This will ensure that we have written queries all directed to one account. Queries will then be directed to the relevant agencies / programme persons, depending on the nature of the question.

If you receive any inquiry on basic details of the programme please direct them to the website page which has all the necessary information.

Communication and visibility objectives

Communication

1. To promote the sharing of information, results and knowledge among stakeholders
2. To uphold the importance of communication between partners to implement the programme and achieve its results.
3. To publicize the programme objective building resilience to potential conflict and tensions related to Solid Waste in targeted locations.
4. To raise awareness among beneficiaries and target groups of the roles of Chrysalis, UNOPS and UN Women and how they work together to support integrated rural development in Sri Lanka and the role of the project in this.

Visibility

1. To ensure that the project is perceived by the public as a comprehensive and effective instrument of supporting solid waste management in Sri Lanka;
2. To raise awareness among the decision makers and key stakeholders who actively engage in generating solutions and managing solid waste of UN Peacebuilding Fund's contribution to supporting solid waste managed in the districts of Puttalam and Mannar;
3. To highlight the role of Chrysalis, UNOPS and UN Women in this project.

Key messages

To publicize the overall objective of the project, E, an identity and "slogans" will be developed (relevant to the local context and in the three languages) to capture the spirit of the programme and for ready use in communication materials.

Target groups

The following stakeholders have been identified through the design of the project. The Central Environmental Authority (CEA), Regional Environmental Authorities and Women Caucuses of Local Councilors will be among the chief stakeholders while the Ministries of Women and Child Affairs and Social Security and Provincial Council and Local Government will be the secondary targets. Through several baseline and perception surveys, conflict and gender analyses, stakeholder mapping and value chain analysis on SWM, the project will engage with local authorities (and potentially private sector partners) on creating income-generating opportunities for women and youth through the monetizing of waste collection.

Human resources

Implementing the communication and visibility plan will be the joint responsibility of all project staff. Communications will be integrated into the programme's operational processes (induction training, brand guidelines, tools and templates). The strategy will provide an effective support mechanism for other programme strategies (such as monitoring and evaluation, knowledge management, amongst others). Each of the partners and subcontractors will bring in the expertise in communication and visibility through their staff and for the project components that they are undertaking.

The Project Manager (Chrysalis) will hold overall responsibility for the Communications and Visibility Strategy. The Monitoring and Evaluation Coordinator (M&E Coordinator) (Chrysalis) liaising closely with the strategic communications lead, will be responsible for driving the day-to-day implementation of the plan with the help of the Communications Manager (Chrysalis). The M&E Coordinator will hold overall responsibility to ensure the implementation of the visibility and communications plan under each project component. Liaising closely with the Project Manager, Communications Manager and UN Women and UNOPS, they will be responsible for driving the day-to-day implementation of the plan.

All publicity materials will be sent first to UN Women for review and the final for approval before being sent out/printed/published.
